DEDICATION

This volume of the Quiver is respectfully dedicated to Ethel M. Lighterness, who is honored as a teacher and appreciated as an adviser. She has served faithfully and well the many students with whom she has come in contact during her years at Pontiac High School.

DEDICATION

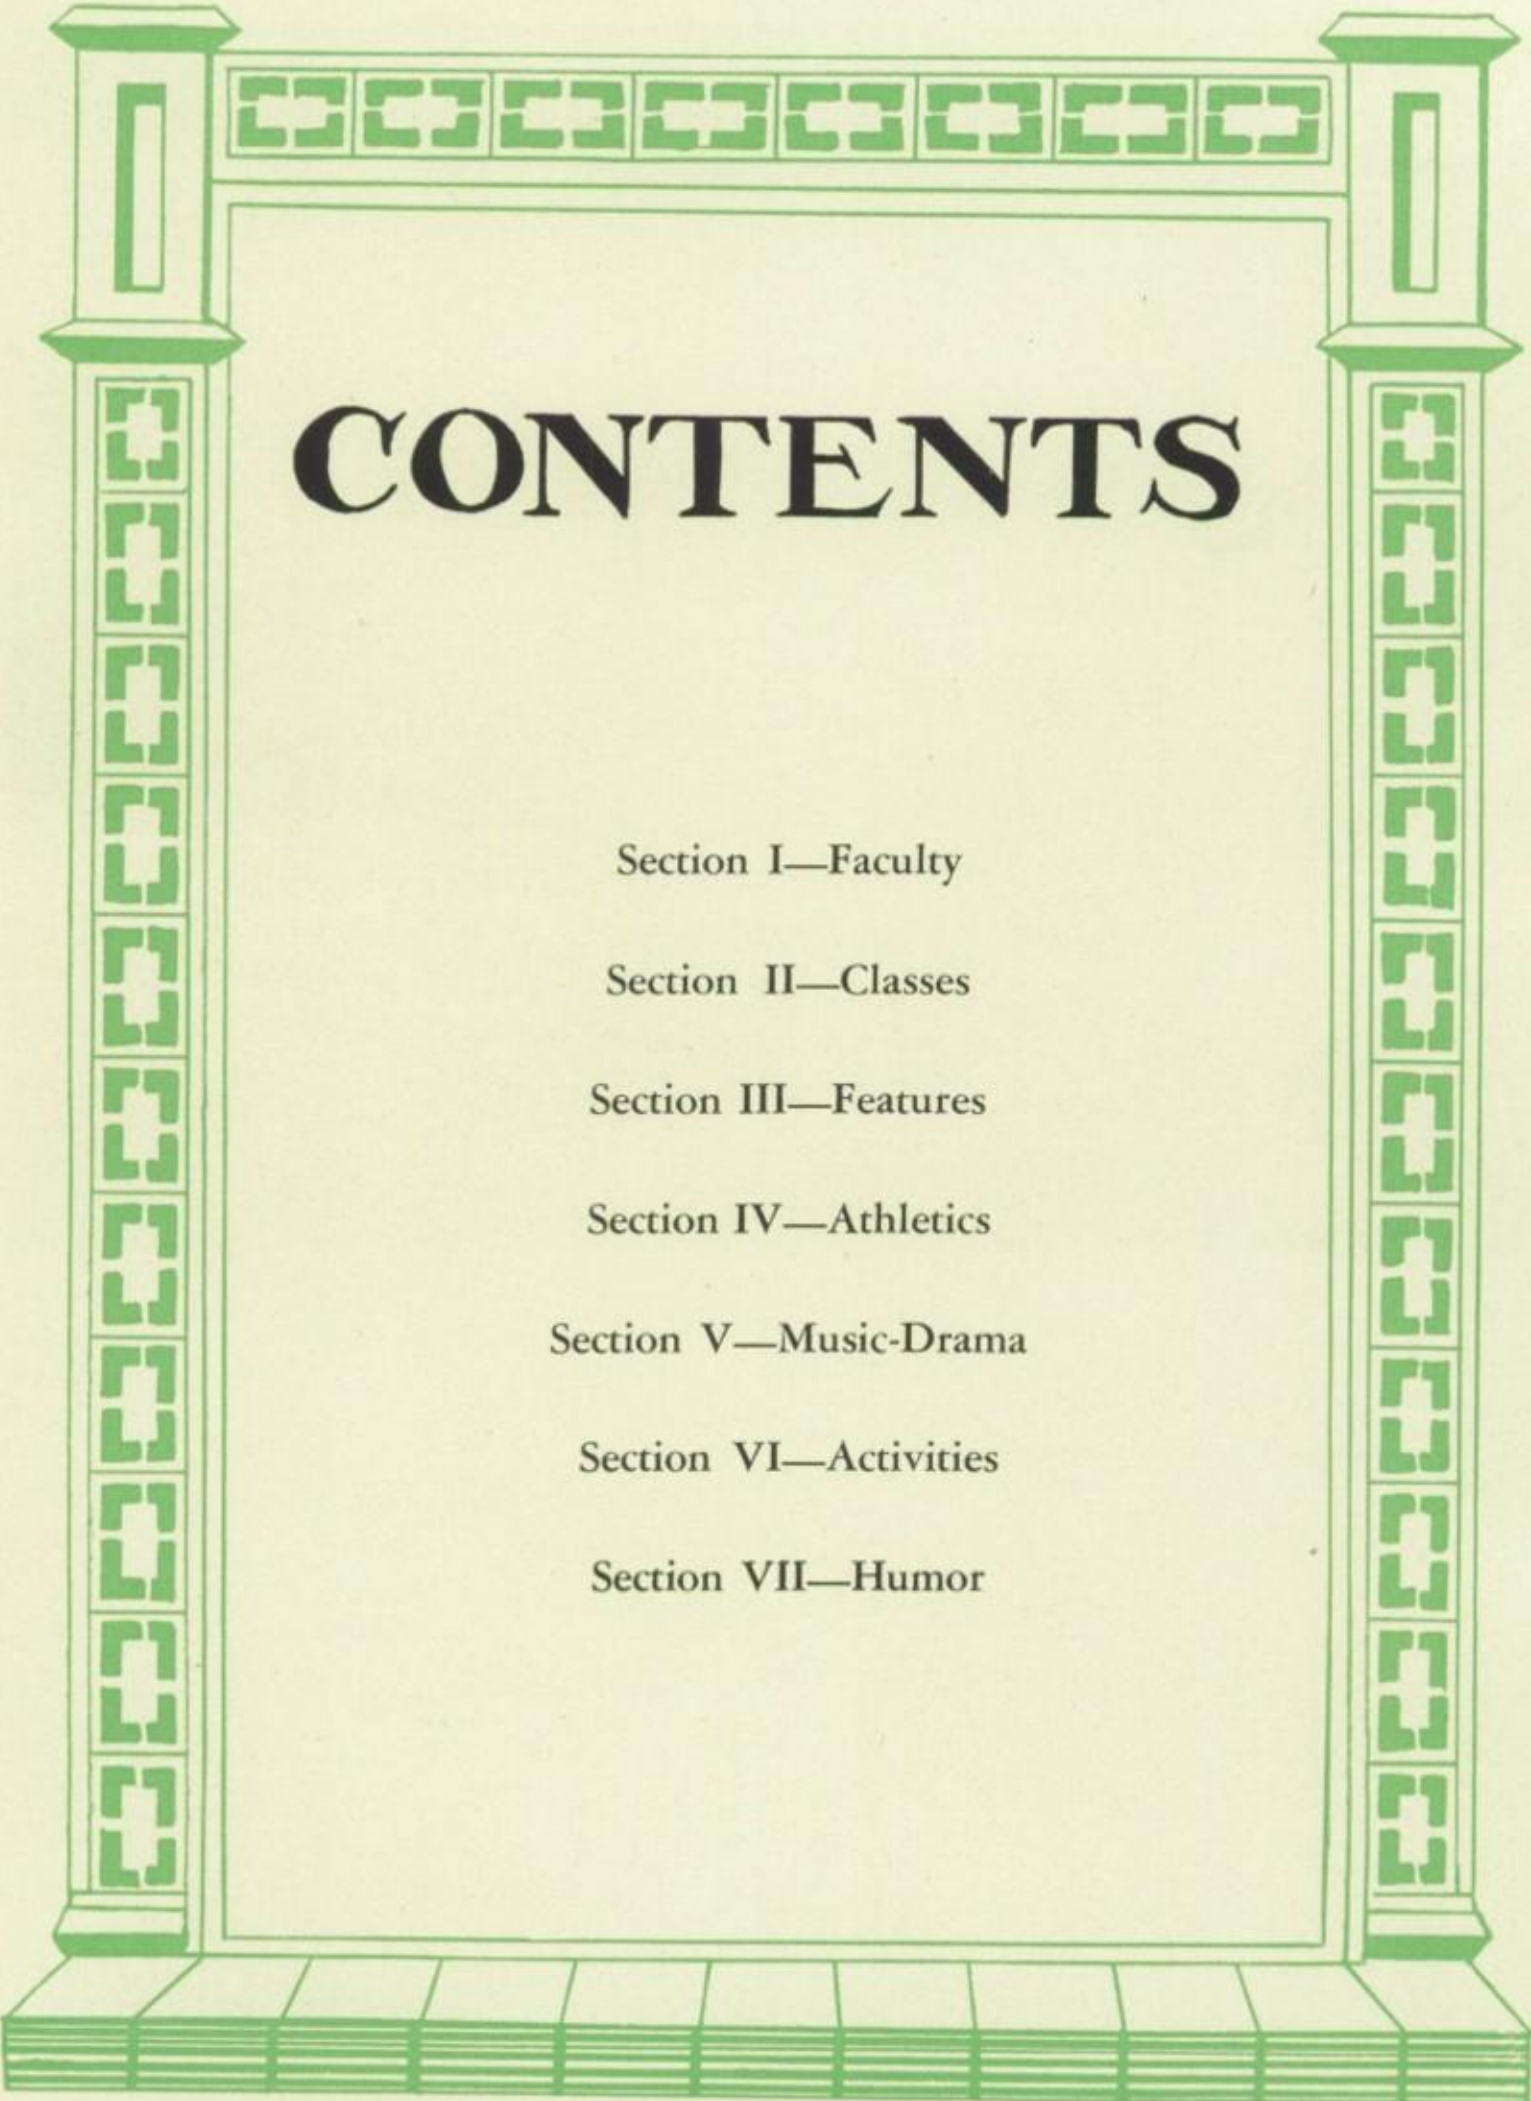

FOREWORD

*T*HE past year has seen a curious blending of the old and the new in our high school. The old building still stands as an honored memorial to past achievement and the new has raised its bulk where once stood the Pontiac High School of 1871.

It is with a feeling of justifiable pride that the staff wishes to present the 30th Annual Quiver to the alumni, faculty and students of Pontiac High School, and it is our sincere wish that the 1929 Quiver will be worthy of its predecessors, and that it will serve effectively as a pictorial connecting link between past and present school days.

History of January Class

We, the January Class of 1929, began the construction of the last of a four-year building program in February, 1928, when we began planning the big things we are going to do; but it was not until the next September that work was begun in earnest. As the main beam of our structure we elected Lyle Passmore, and, as his supporting column, George Hawn was elected. There was a tie between Florine Isgrigg and Lucille Hallock for treasurer. Florine Isgrigg won the tie. As the other supporting column Mary Windiate was elected secretary.

Shortly after this we gave, with the June Seniors, a play for the Freshmen which showed them how they should perform in class.

"School Days" was the title of it, and it was written by Eleanor Riker.

Our Baccalaureate Exercises were held on the 20th of January at the First Presbyterian Church. Dr. Peterson gave the address. On the next Tuesday a banquet was given at Devon Gables. James Lynch spoke to us. Class Night we graduated informally, and then came commencement. Everyone looked very dignified in his cap and gown as we all marched up to get what we had worked for—the diplomas from Mr. DuFrain. Dean Williams of Albion gave the address.

Our High School days are now ended. All of us are to go in different directions and to different phases of work.

June Class History

WE, THE SENIORS, are the leaders of 1929. We realized the responsibility of those words last September and now we know that it was a responsibility, for we have done the work and lived up to our name.

Election of officers was the first task. George Stout was chosen the chief executive; Leslie Shanks, his assistant; June Best, secretary; and Hertha Ruth Skerritt, treasurer.

Our second duty was to give the Freshmen a reception. Co-operating with the January class, we gave the little playlet, "School Days," in the auditorium one afternoon.

Next we attended the January Seniors' Prom. We enjoyed it very much, but the big event was to be ours. Preceding it we had several informal dancing parties in the afternoon. Just before the Prom, however, we took our Senior exams. This left us with a clear mind for the Banquet and the Prom.

June 7 saw the Senior Prom. The gym was decorated in the class colors, blue and gold, and we had a very good orchestra. Almost the entire class was there and many of our teacher friends.

To finish our career in Pontiac High School, there will be our Baccalaureate Services, Class Night, and Commencement.

Leaving Pontiac High School, we sketch our High School Life as a four-story building containing our Freshman, Sophomore, Junior, and Senior years, and as another four-story building containing Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service Development.

WE, the Juniors, with three comfortable years behind us, find ourselves on the verge of a great task, that of being Seniors.

This year we were very much interested in activities. Next year we will assume leadership in those in which we were most successful. We have also made progress in scholastic work.

Our honor roll has been larger than ever before.

As we stand poised to go into our last and Senior year, we hope to gain the success that the class of 1929 has achieved.

With our Freshman year behind us and our Junior and Senior years ahead of us, we, the Sophomores, are valuable members of the Pontiac High School student body.

We, the Freshmen, have passed our first year in Pontiac High School with much pleasure. We entered in September humbly and are leaving this June with more assurance than we had hoped to achieve.

We have studied hard and worked with such determination for the beginning success that is now ours. This success is laid on the foundations of Latin, Algebra, English and History. This foundation is to hold up the rest of the building of our high school career which will be made up of activities and service to the school.

So we enter into our Sophomore year. Our hopes for next year are without bound. We want to make our high school life the fullest possible.

FEATURES

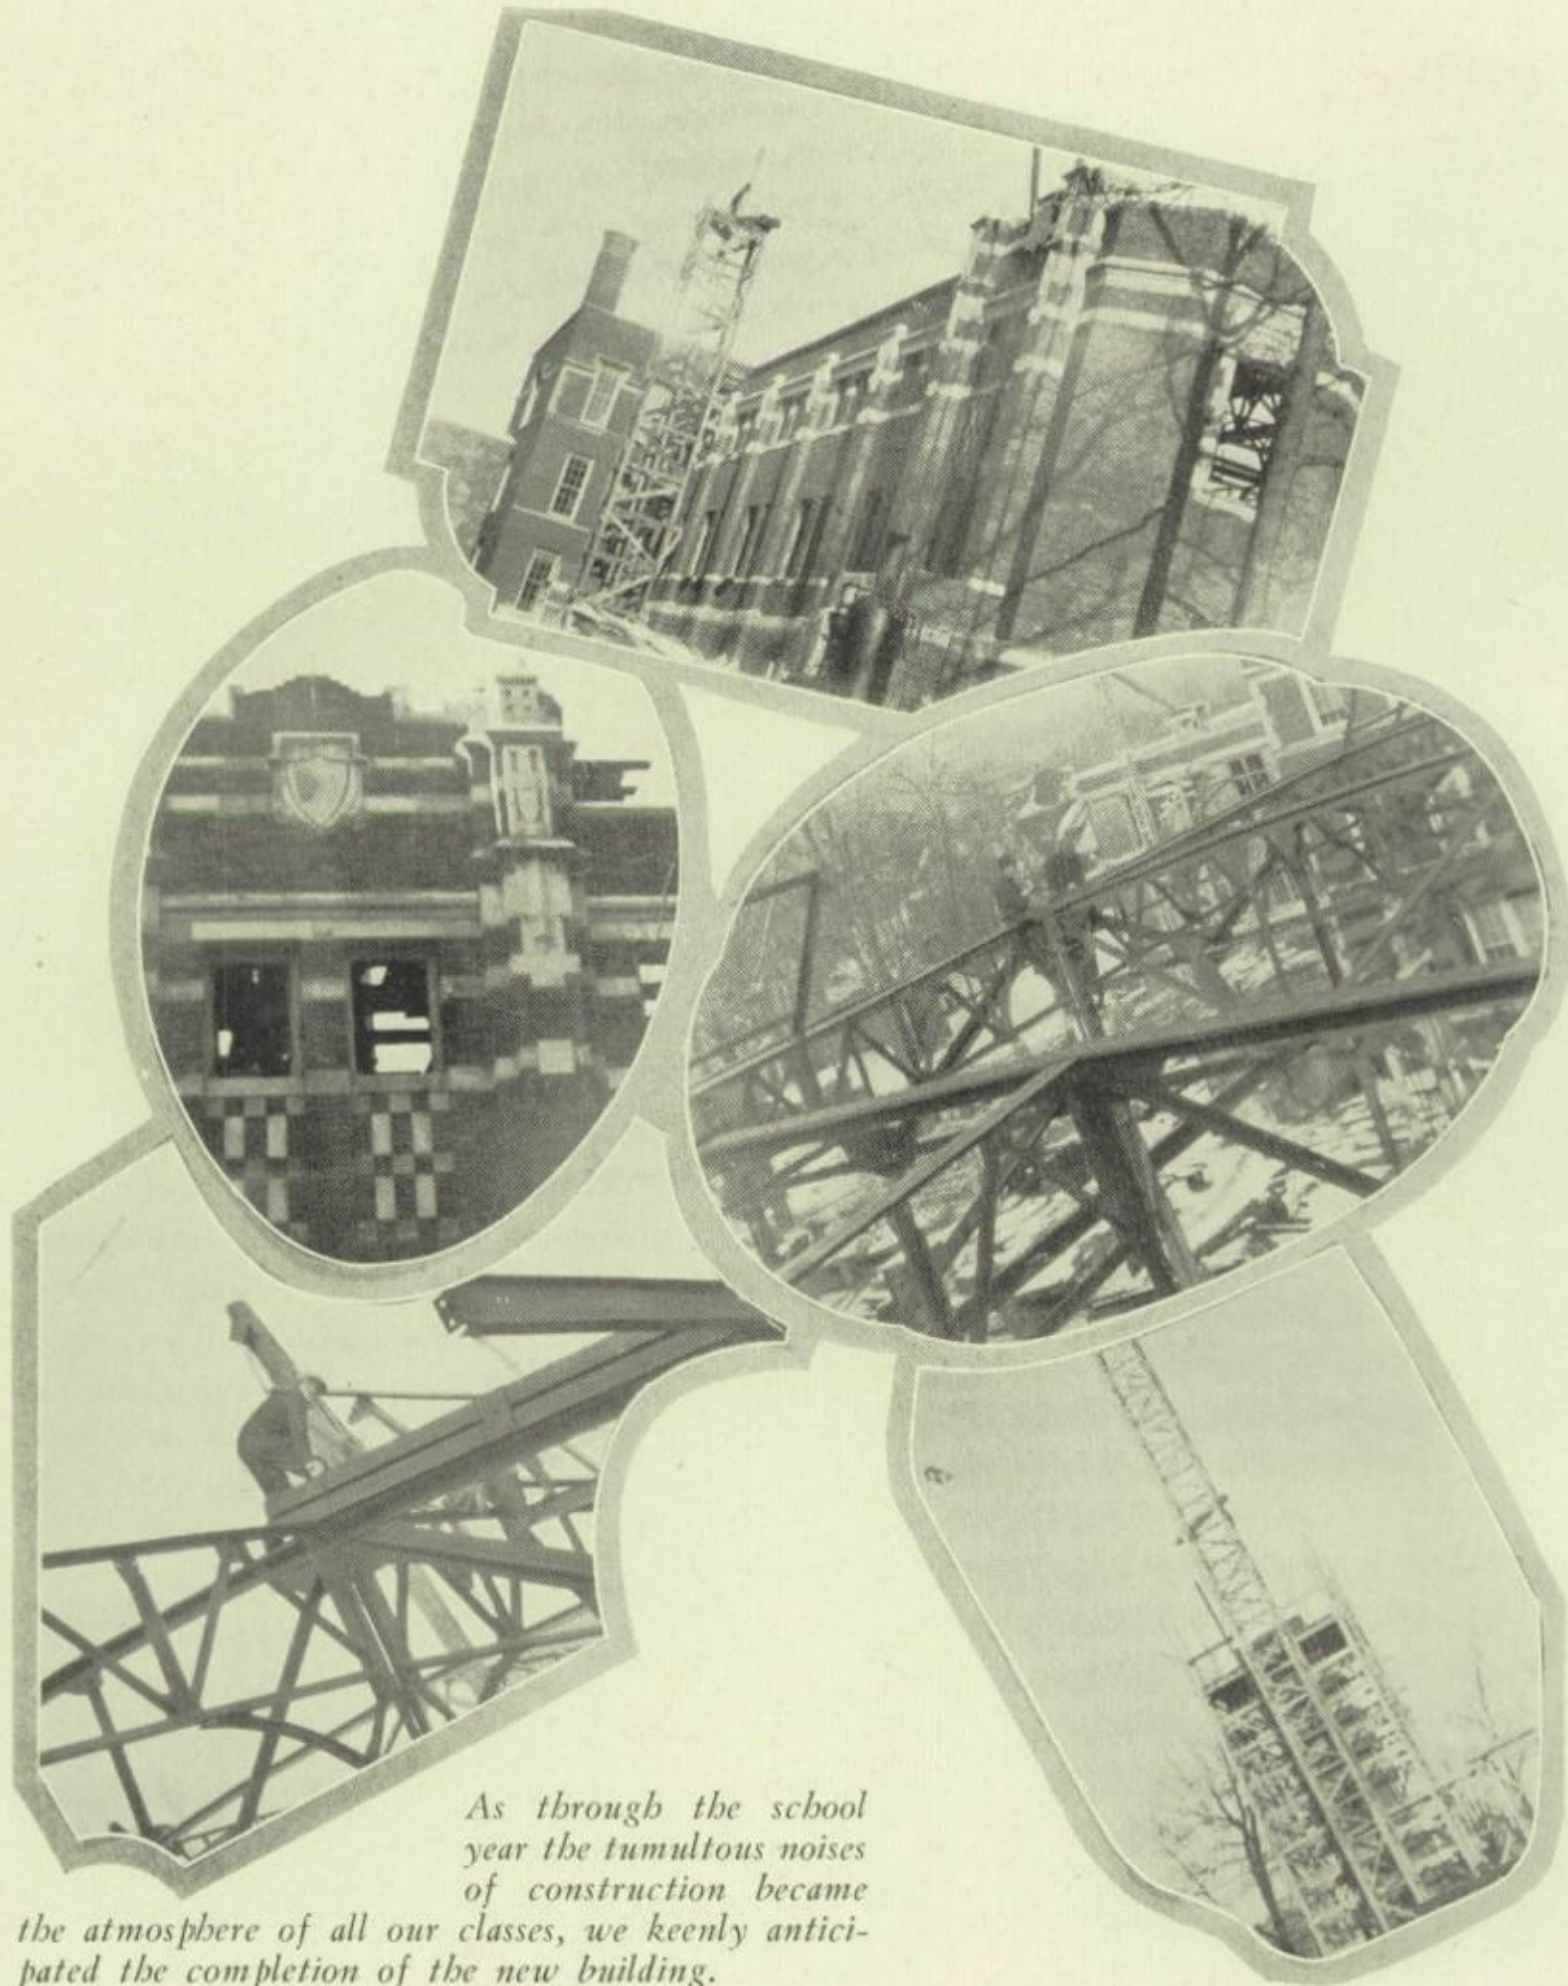

QUIVER

The thump-thump of falling trees, the hissing of steam, and rat-a-tat of carpenters' hammers introduced the erection of the two new units which started in September.

QUIVER

As through the school year the tumultuous noises of construction became the atmosphere of all our classes, we keenly anticipated the completion of the new building.

QUIVER

We couldn't resist publishing a picture of a reel(?) sports-woman and two real sportsmen. This center group, which owes its fine reputation to Miss Hook, is known as the Violin Octette.

QUIVER

Many of our dignified Seniors were caught by the camera in very undignified poses, such as the acrobat and the driver of the ancient vehicle.

Here are some of the highlights in school dramatics. The tramp certainly is a good specimen of what we saw all over the school on our first "Tramp Day."

JOHNSTONE
Athletic Director

A VERY noticeable progress has been made in the sports of Pontiac High School through the efforts of the able coaching staff. The great increase in the number of participants is most encouraging and the future is bright.

John Johnstone, as director of the Department of Physical Education, has full charge of all athletics. Mr. Johnstone's greatest success has been in creating the very extensive inter-mural sports, the development of which is one of his finest ambitions.

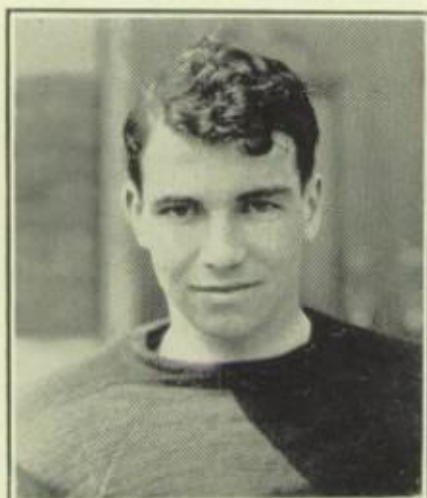

Coach Charles D. Weldon, who has been in charge of the major sports for the past two years, has given the school some of the best teams Pontiac has ever seen. The success of the '28 football team is due greatly to "Dink's" supervision, as is also that of our winning basketball team of '28 and '29.

Cline Hartman, one of Pontiac's versatile coaches, played a big part in developing the second squads of both football and basketball. Some fine football material is expected to be ready for first squad consideration due to Hartman's work. Also the first reserve basketball team never to lose a game was developed by Mr. Hartman.

Coach T. Wiersma, who has been a member of Pontiac's coaching staff for a number of years, produced some fine Cross Country material. Mr. Wiersma previously coached and developed one of Pontiac's finest tennis teams as well as our swimming team.

To Herman Otto, a recent addition to the coaching staff, is due a great deal of the credit for the type of football players that Pontiac had. Otto was a very able assistant to Coach Weldon during the football season, and his influence upon the players encouraged and helped the morale of the team.

BUCKLEY

DURING the semesters of the year of 1928-29, Pontiac turned out some of the greatest teams ever to represent the school. A great deal of honor and credit for the success of these teams was due to the captains of the respective teams, as it was through them that the players received the necessary knowledge and "the spirit of do or die."

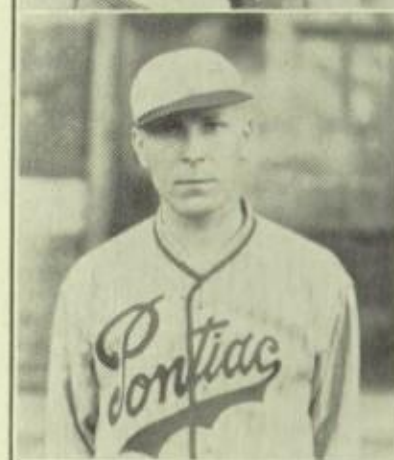

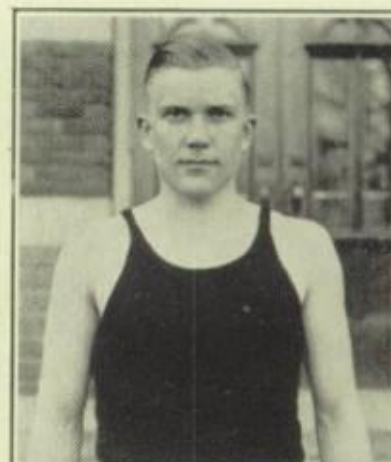

Capt. Kenneth Buckley was one of the greatest backs to wear the Orange and Black. Buck's fine work on the field and general good leadership placed him in the position for choice on mythical All-State teams.

Russell Oliver, co-captain of Pontiac's '28-'29 basketball teams, was recognized as one of the best forwards in the state. Russ' punch throughout the game carried his team a long ways toward the top.

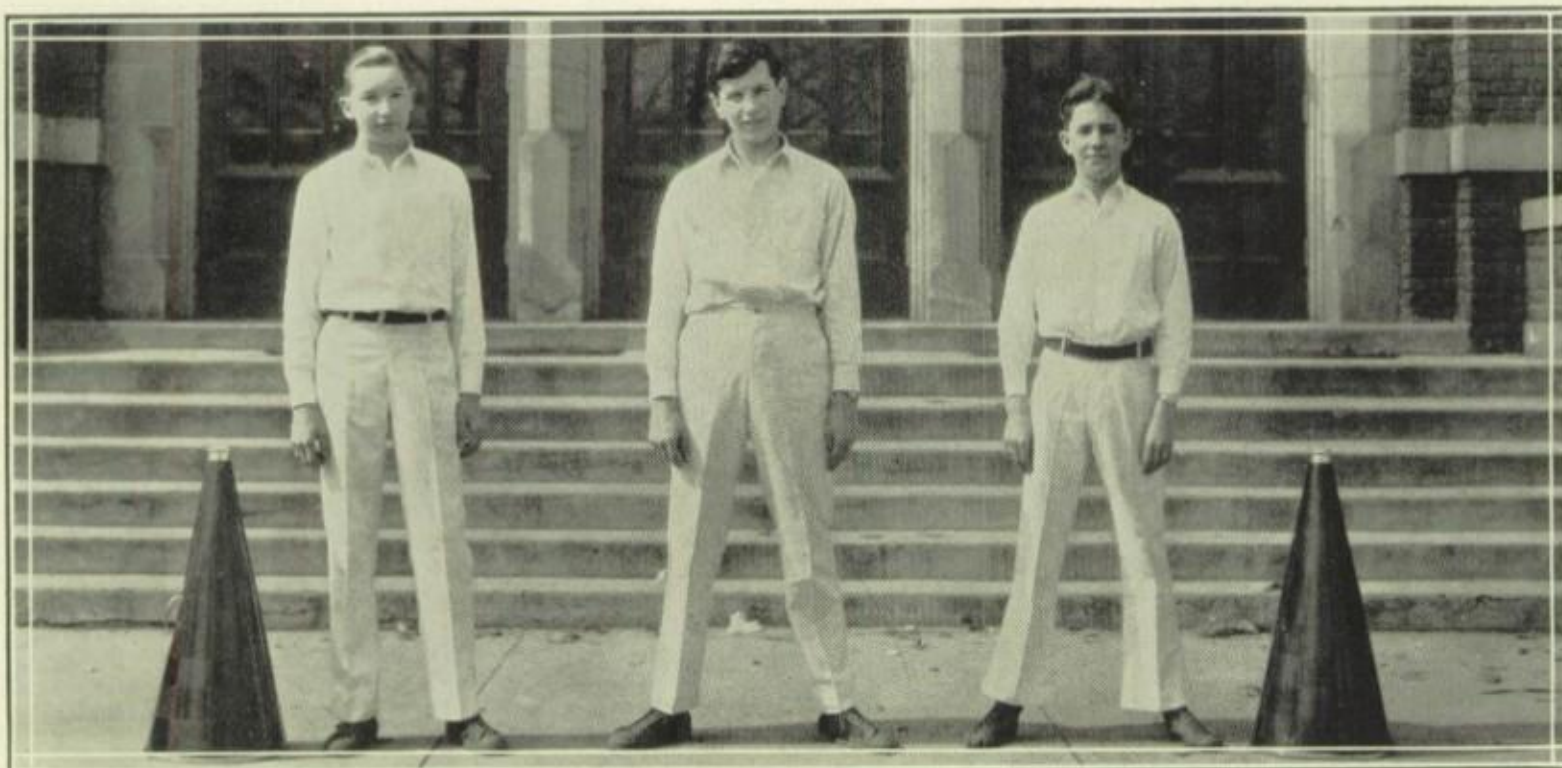

Capt. Max Selle, one of the co-captains, usually managed to get the tip-off. Max's ability to find the basket from any position on the floor explains why he was the individual big scorer of the team.

George Stout, captain of the track team of '29, invariably won points for his team. Stout was most successful in the weight events. His ability to heave the discus enabled him to win several inter-scholastic meets in which he participated.

Capt. Michael Cahill was a very able leader for our baseball team. Mike played shortstop, and there were no unnecessary errors chalked up against him. Cahill showed his team how the game should be played and, when they followed his example, Pontiac came out on the top.

Cheer Leaders

ALTHOUGH Pontiac Varsity material was of the best, the credit for our very successful seasons in each sport is not entirely due to the material, nor altogether to the coaches. In fact a great deal of credit should be given to our energetic cheer leaders.

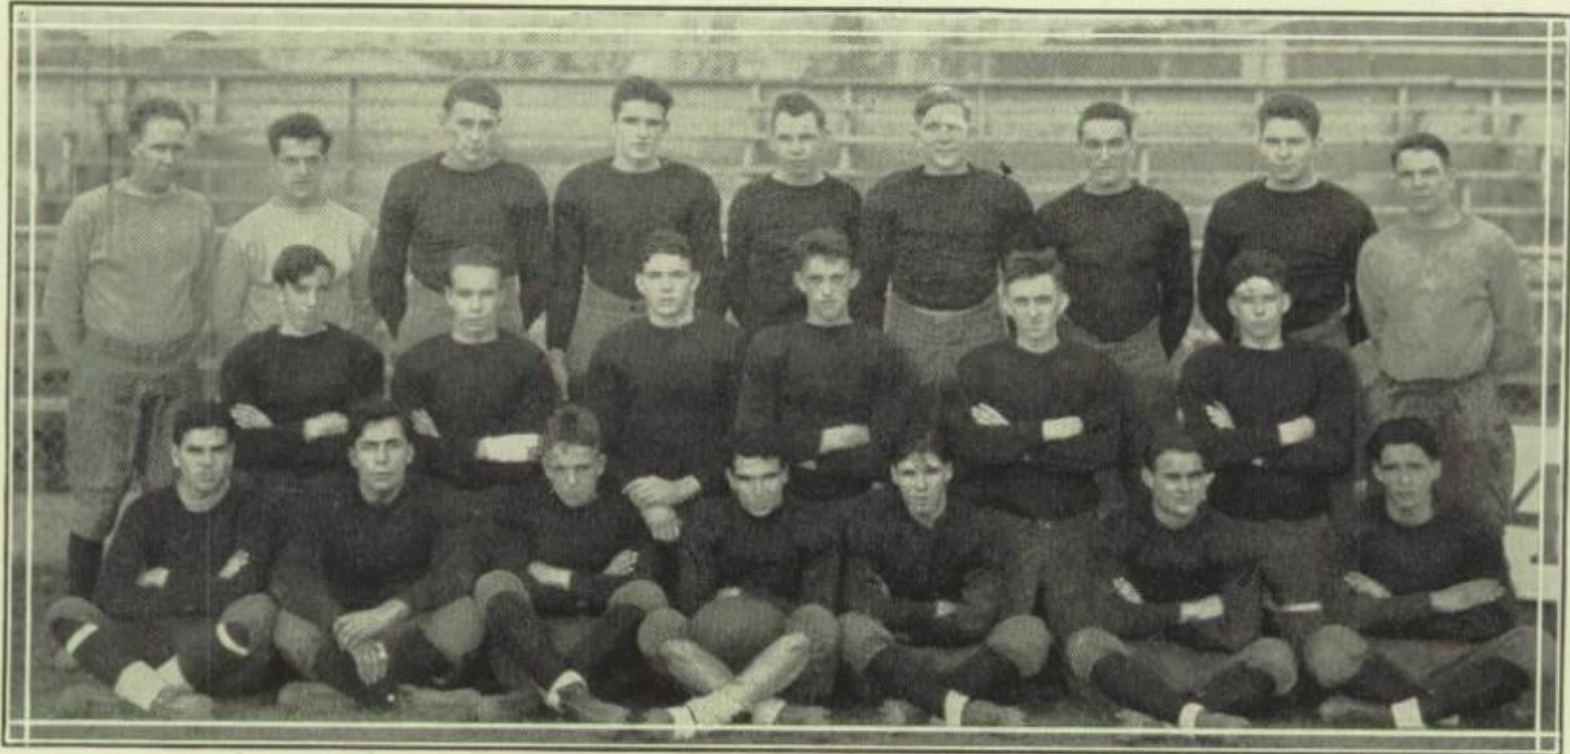

This group of boys, led by Dexter Rohm, showed some great spirit in cheer leading and their ability to get the crowds to yell was a great asset to the squads representing the school. At the beginning of the school year Dexter had a great deal of trouble in getting fellows to try for positions as cheer leaders. Although the job is an essential one and of great importance, the boys did not seem to care for it. However, with Dexter in charge of the proceedings, a group of boys was brought together who were eager to get into the sport. Out of these boys, Rohm and his assistants picked Joe Horak and Glenn Griffin, fellows who showed some keen ability in getting yells from the crowd.

Horak, although small, was an able man, leading the cheering to his greatest ability and invariably rousing the audience to outlandish roaring. Joe always held the crowd when he attempted cheer leading. This possibly was the reason why he was so successful.

Griffin was also a great asset to the cheering section. Glen showed his great interest in the school by answering the call for cheer leaders instantly. Although he expects to participate in athletics, he was very willing to help the boys out to his best ability. Glenn led several cheers in the "Pep" meetings also. It was in these "Pep" meetings that he gained his first experience in leading cheers.

Dexter Rohm, the veteran leader of two or three years, did his best to help out the school. Dexter was a fine boy and an equally good cheer leader. It was through Dexter's deep interest that such a capable section was developed.

First Football Team

THE greatest number of candidates ever to respond to the call of any sport in Pontiac High responded to the football summons early in September. The greatest difficulty faced by the coaches was to find facilities for the hundred odd boys who thronged around them. After a few weeks of preliminaries on the new football field, the group was divided up into several squads. Coaches Weldon and Otto took charge of the first squad of thirty, twenty or more of whom had had experience of a year or more. Kline Hartman took a second squad of yearlings that were not quite so sore, and other able coaches took over the supervision of the freshman squad. Some of the most versatile material in years answered the call of the coaches this year. Nine of the eleven regulars of the year before were again out for berths, and reserve material of the previous years also helped along the very bright prospects of the season.

Twenty-two boys played through the season and were deemed eligible to receive the varsity "P."

The fine field house and the many needed facilities were at the demand of the coaches, and it did not take long to get the first squad under way. The loss of one or two of the best players of the former team seemed a hard knock; but the boys were willing and the coaches soon developed an even better team than that of the year before.

One or two bad week-ends spoiled the record but even with those included, the varsity ranked with the best in the state. The exceptionally fine team work and the ability to make the best of their chances enabled the boys to show as good a record as Pontiac teams have ever had.

Players

CAPTAIN Kenneth Buckley played his fourth and last year on Pontiac's varsity football team. "Ken" filled his position as halfback well and always managed to gain ground when carrying the ball. Buckley was one of Pontiac's outstanding varsity captains and his example had much influence on the playing of the other regulars.

DeVere Bigler, playing his first year as a regular on the team, did well enough to be named captain of the 1929 team. DeVere was a fine open field runner, and his "never give up" spirit will aid him in leading his team to victory in the encounters of next fall.

George Stout, a veteran of two years, also played his last year at tackle and always managed to get his man. Stout gained recognition on an All-State team, thus proving his ability.

Earl Bauer was taken from the second team in the middle of the season and finished out the year with the first squad. He was an able half back and played well in his last year for the school.

Earl Estes played in several games this year, and his fine ability as a center was remarkable. Much is expected of him next fall.

Players

HAROLD HAINES from Keego Harbor filled a position at end most of the year. He developed quickly and proved an able wingman.

Arthur Harrington made the varsity squad his first year out. Art played guard and none of his opponents were anxious for too close contact. Art will be greatly missed next fall.

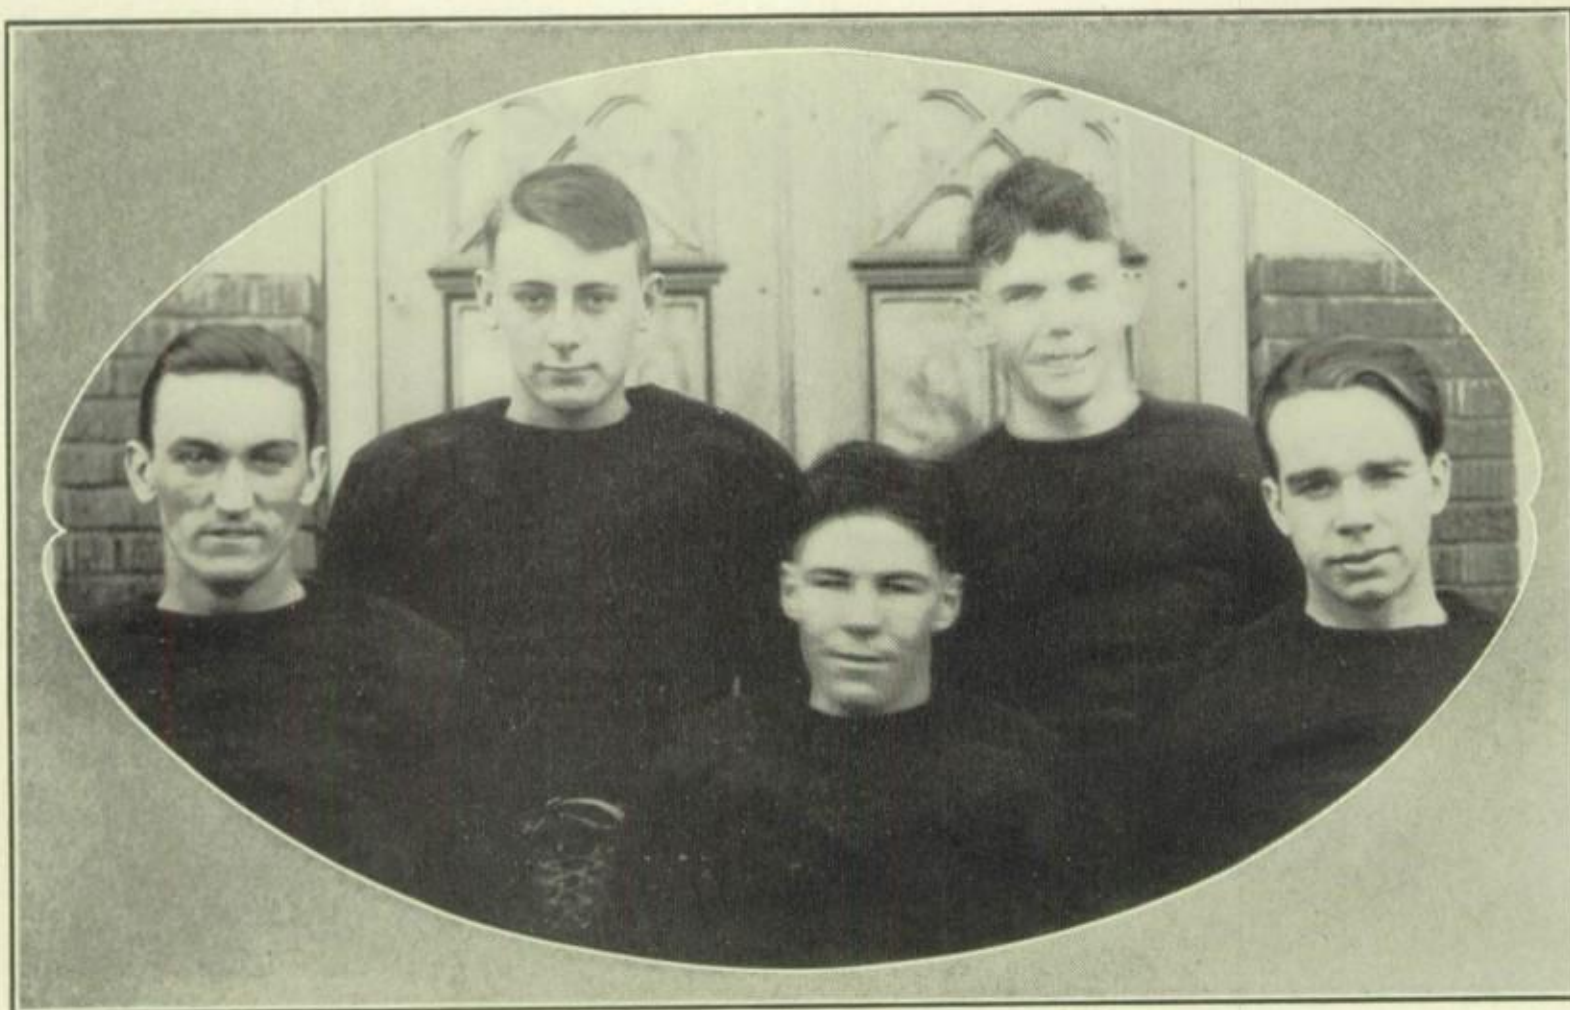

Rolfe Holliday played his last year at quarter. An injured hand disabled him some but when he played, the opposition knew they were bucking a stone wall.

Harry Jeremy was one of the fleet halves.

Jeremy will be missed in the coming year. Harry made several open field runs that were marveled at by all the spectators.

Harold Krohn, another sophomore back, played his first year on the squad and is expected to be one of the best next fall. A stone wall couldn't stop him on a line buck, and he was usually good for a touchdown when near the goal.

Earl Martin was a three-year veteran at end. Earl played a few games this year, but a dislocated shoulder early in the season disabled him greatly.

Games

THE Pontiac Varsity opened the football season this year at Birmingham. The boys played well and for three quarters held a lead of 6 to 0 over their rivals. However, the jinx on losing the first game rang true this time, and Birmingham was enabled to come out on top with two lucky passes, ending the game at 13 to 6.

Mt. Clemens

Although Pontiac's fighting spirit was up the following week, because of the big loss to Mt. Clemens the previous year, the victory went to neither side. The boys could not seem to get started, and although Mt. Clemens had a "green" team, Pontiac seemed unable to put the ball across. The score at 0 to 0 was better than the previous week, but more had been expected.

Royal Oak

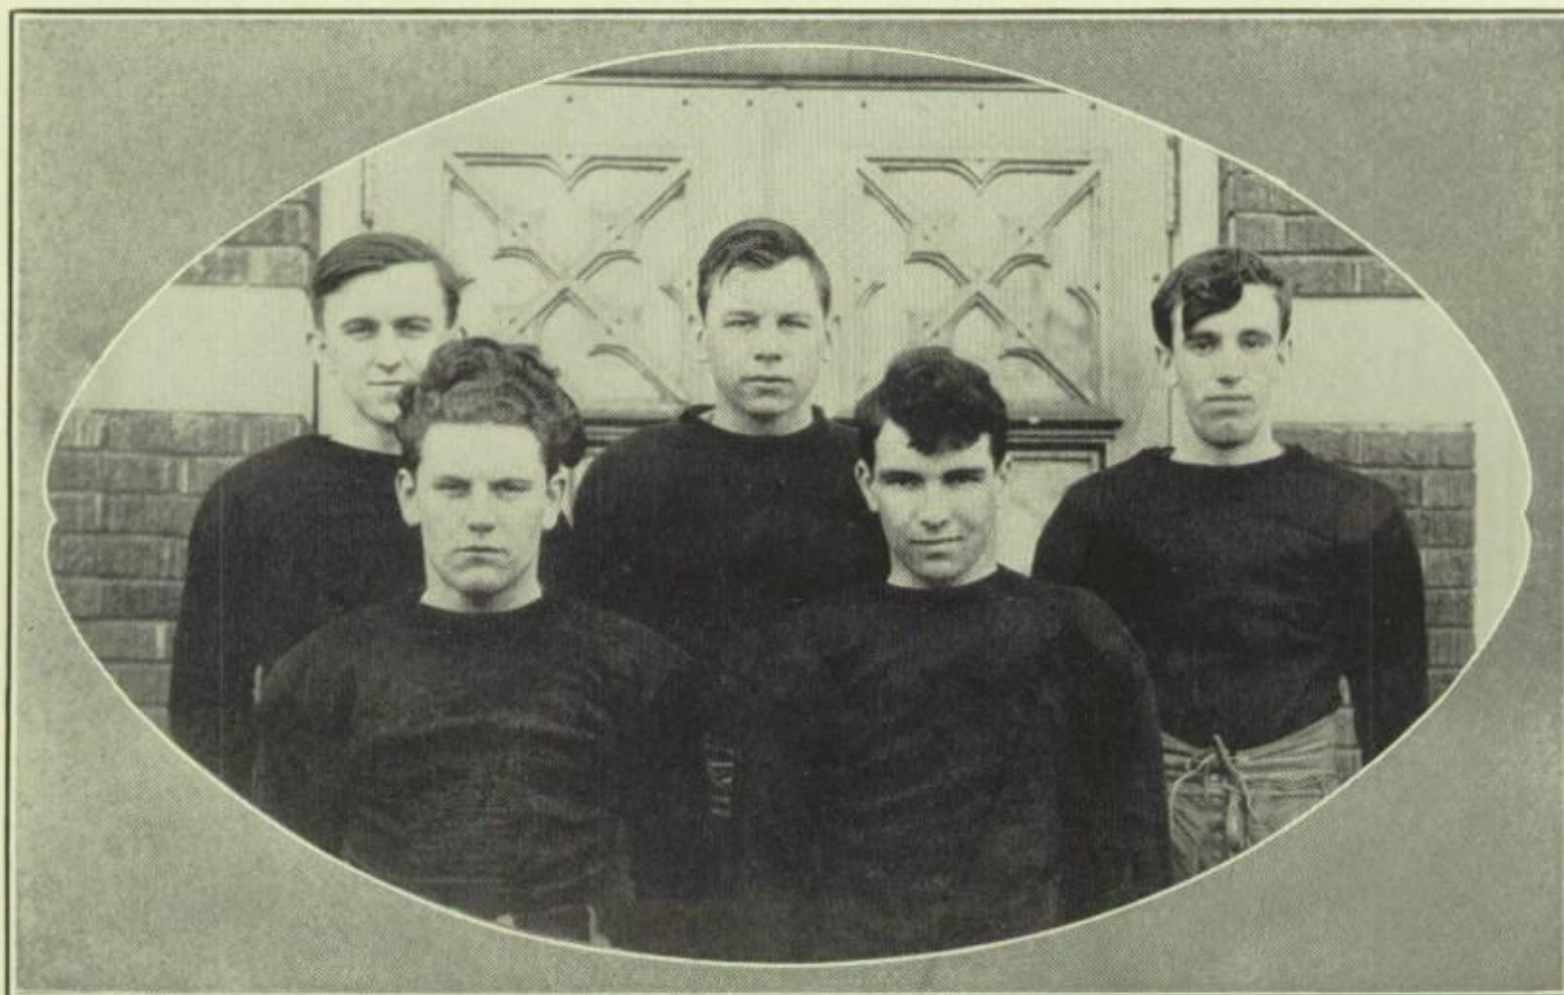

The boys played some mean football in this game, and last year's even break was well avenged by a one-sided victory of 20 to 0. Capt. Buckley led his men well and the good generalship told in the pinches. Salters of Pontiac made the outstanding play of the game by gathering up a fumble and running 95 yards for a touchdown.

Port Huron

The fine work of the complete team enabled the Orange and Black to come out victorious for the second time. Port Huron offered little opposition to the boys and they romped lightly over their opponents to a decision of 26 to 0. Mogg's fine 75 yard run for a touchdown brightened a rather dull game.

Games

Ann Arbor

Things did not seem to go well at Ann Arbor. An early start for the University City probably had its bad effect on the fellows. However, by steady pulling, they managed to down the Ann Arbor lads by a close 12 to 7 score.

Detroit Central

Pontiac played its great game of the season against Central. Detroit Central, ranked as one of the best teams in the state, was turned down nicely. The Detroit boys were a little over-confident, and this, linked with the fact that our boys were determined, played a great part in our 6 to 0 victory.

Flint

This game marked the first time in over a month that the Pontiac team had taken the short end of a score. Flint had a powerful team, and with the breaks in their favor they managed to down us at a rate of 26 to 11. The boys did their best, but over-confidence told on them and helped to put another large blot on our score card. Captain-elect Bigler showed his ability in this game, outshining all of his backfield competitors.

Jackson

The Jackson game saw the finishing of this fine record, one of the best that Pontiac has ever made. The boys were determined to come out on top and so they did. Bigler's fine example urged them on to a 20 to 0 victory over a team Pontiac had not beaten in the last two decades. The fine spirit of the student body was noticeable and the big parade before the game marked the general good will of the students. Pontiac had a fairly successful year, winning five games, tying one, and losing two. Our team totaled twice as many points as their opponents and our local goal was uncrossed.

Football Reserves

PONTIAC'S Reserve team consisted mostly of Soph and Junior material. Much experienced material was further developed in the squad, and the outcome of the season showed some fine prospects for our '29 varsity team. Coach Hartman directed the squad.

The first game of the season with Holly High School was hard fought but the boys would not be beaten. The Orange backfield did well and the line made it impossible for any good gains by the opposition. The end came with the score in our favor, a close 7-6.

The following week they took on Ferndale Reserves, a somewhat weaker team but still not a pushover. Again the Orange and Black triumphed with a score of 24-0. The large score did not truly represent the closeness of the fight.

The Walled Lake game, ending with a 19-6 victory, demonstrated the fine work of each man. The boys were playing hard and made a hard game easy.

The following week's game seemed an easy victory for the Reserves. The second team traveled to Milford where they opposed the Milford aggregation. The line plungers made great fun by running for long gains through the opposing line, and the line men invariably downed the Milford runners yards behind the scrimmage line. The final score was 24-0, a one-sided victory but still a hard-fought game.

Once again the scrubs took on the Milford team. The game was very uneven, due partly to the fact that the Reserves were on their own field. The backfield men once more romped through and over the Milfordmen. Great gains were made and some marvelous passes were completed. This game was even more lopsided than the previous one, the final count being 56-0.

For the last game of the season the Reserves battled the strong Rochester eleven. The Orangemen put up a good fight, but they were outweighed as well as outclassed. The fatal end saw the score against us to the tune of 36-14.

Football, Third Team

AS the total number of football candidates reached approximately eighty boys, material for the third team was plentiful. After a few weeks of practice and after the group was divided into squads, there were about 20 boys placed on the team which will some day be the varsity team of Pontiac High. The squad was young and inexperienced as it was made up of Freshmen and Sophomores who were, however, receiving valuable information about the fundamentals of football; they should benefit greatly because of this season's work. There has been great importance attached to the third team. These boys have shown their best and, if present indications are true, the future Pontiac teams will be of the best.

John Heitsch had charge of the squad and he was able to develop some boys who will be using their talents later. The schedule was light, but scrimmages among the team members did a great deal of good toward bringing out the best a boy had. Although this type of sport has been advanced only in the last few years, the progress seems to be fine and the plan is going to be followed until a still better method is developed.

There were four or five games on the schedule with the final standings about fifty-fifty. Two games were divided with the Eastern Junior High team. Other games, not quite so close with Orion and Berkley, showed the required spirit, but the lack of experience was the telling factor.

Those who received the 6" R as members of the third team were:

Cheer Leaders

Dexter Rohm, Glenn Griffin, and Joe Horak were the mainstays of the cheer leaders. Both Rohm and Griffin led the cheering sections for the second year. Horak was a new man who, before the seasons were over, proved to be a find. The boys had lots of "pep" and their fine work can not be given too much credit.

First Basketball Team

THE season of '28 and '29 was another very successful year for the Varsity. Eighteen games were scheduled, three of which were to be played in Illinois. As the records showed only two defeats in the state, we may rightly say this was one of the most successful seasons of any Pontiac team. Some forty boys reported for practice, several of these being veterans of two or more years. As during the last three years, Weldon coached the squad.

The season was opened as usual with a few practice games in which we met Redford and Detroit. Pontiac came out with the large end of the score in each of these preliminaries.

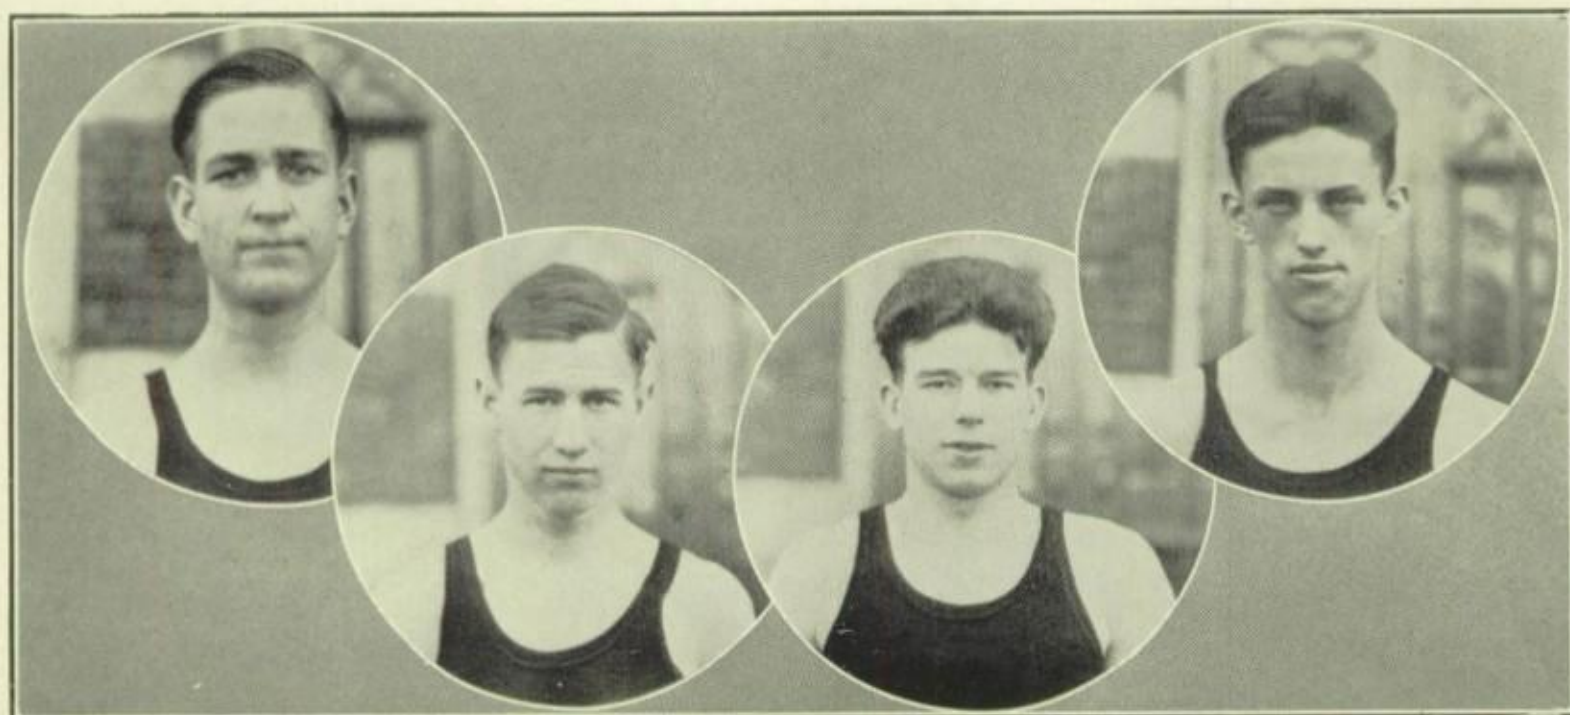

Following these encounters came the regular schedule of the year in which Ann Arbor, Mt. Clemens, Jackson, Flint, St. Frederick's, Saginaw, and other teams were met. Our team did very well in each game. The final scores of the Ann Arbor and Port Huron games showed closely fought contests. The Jackson game, played away from home, was somewhat of a set-back to the boys. They had expected a hard fight but not defeat. However, since the Jackson team's victory was by a low score and since Jackson reached the quarter finals in the National Tournament, no regrets can be expressed.

The other game, which was a big disappointment to the basketball fans, was that with Lansing Eastern. Lansing had a powerful team and was able to defeat our boys twice during the season, once in the District Tournament. Although our team did not do nearly as well as was expected of it in the Tournament, its record for the year was exceptionally good.

The fine work of the co-captains throughout the season helped the morale of the team and did much to overcome existing obstacles.

Harry Troxell, a veteran member of the football team, acted as manager of the squad. Harry was a novelty in the position of manager, as he took part in one or two of the games.

Basketball Players

*M*AX SELLE played his third year on the first team. Max was a fine leader and worked well as co-captain. Selle will be missed greatly, as his ability to get the tip off and to sink baskets was uncanny.

"Russ" Oliver, the other co-captain, played a wonderful game at forward. Russ sank them from almost any position on the floor. Oliver always kept the ball for his men as much as possible and was determined to come out on top.

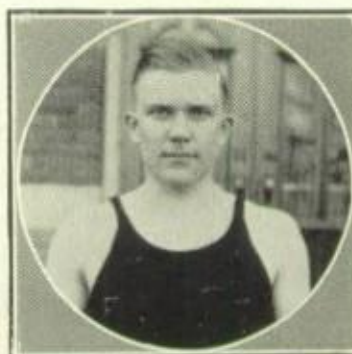

Emmet Buckley, captain-elect for '29 and '30, was outstanding in the latter part of the season. Emmet deserved the confidence placed in him by his comrades and should be a fine leader next fall. Buckley was only a sophomore so he has much time to develop and much is expected of him.

Willard Boardman, a three year veteran, was lost to the team at February graduation. Boardman played his usual fine game throughout the playing season and was very important in his aggressive play.

Le Verne Bigler, another sophomore who made his varsity letter, was a mainstay of the team. "Big" took the ball from his opponents often and caused a great deal of worry.

Earl Martin, a veteran of two years' play, showed his usual fine game when he was given the chance. "China" was a forward and always managed to get a few necessary baskets.

Leslie Matthews, our Freshman Flash, ended the season as one of the best players in the school. Matty totalled point after point in each game. His keen ability to be where he should be and his accurate eye made him one of Dink's best men.

Harold Haines played his first year on the varsity. Haines had a fine eye and invariably managed to sink a few baskets. Harold will probably hold down a berth next year and should prove to be a great help to the '30 team.

Jack Sinclair advanced from the second team and played a fine brand of basketball in the games in which he took part. Jack was a fine passer and equally as good a shot.

George Roe's experience of last year increased his ability three fold. George was acknowledged as one of the best guards of the state by visiting coaches. His sudden death caused sorrow to all his team mates and materially weakened the team.

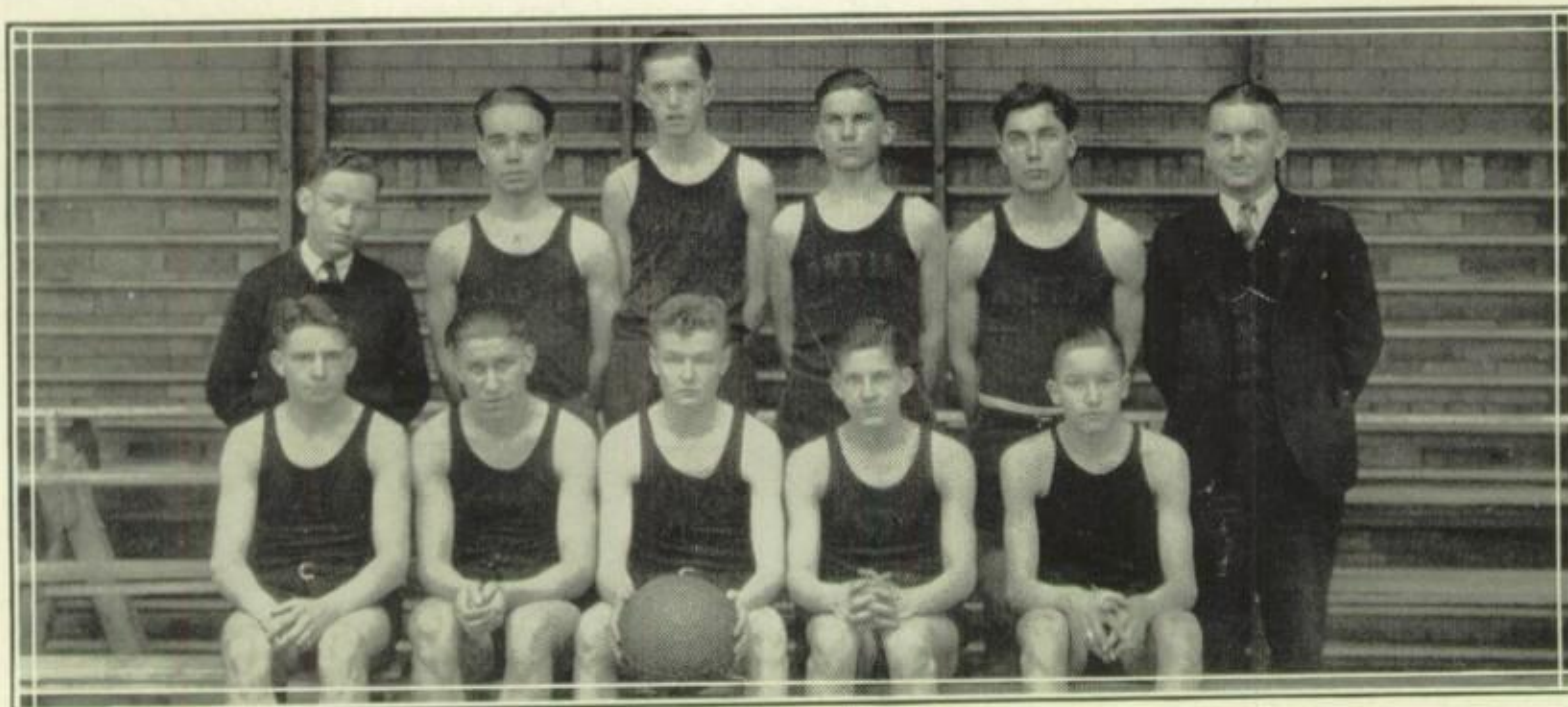

Pontiac will lose many of its mainstays for next year's teams, but some fine material will return to fight for the Orange and Black.

The combined efforts of these players made a successful basketball season. It can be said of each fellow, "he played the game well."

Reserve Basketball

PONTIAC had one of the most successful Reserve teams ever to be developed in the school. Kline Hartman coached the squad and he was able to make a fine team out of the raw material which he started the season with. The great success of the scrubs assures fine material for future varsity fives.

Nine boys received letters for their service on the Reserve team. They were Charles Hunt, Rolfe Holliday, Marion Farnsworth, Crawford, Baker, Brice, Leffel, Taylor, Salders and Griffen.

The schedule of the season consisted of 14 games, each one a hard battle. Everyone of these games ended in a victory for the Orange.

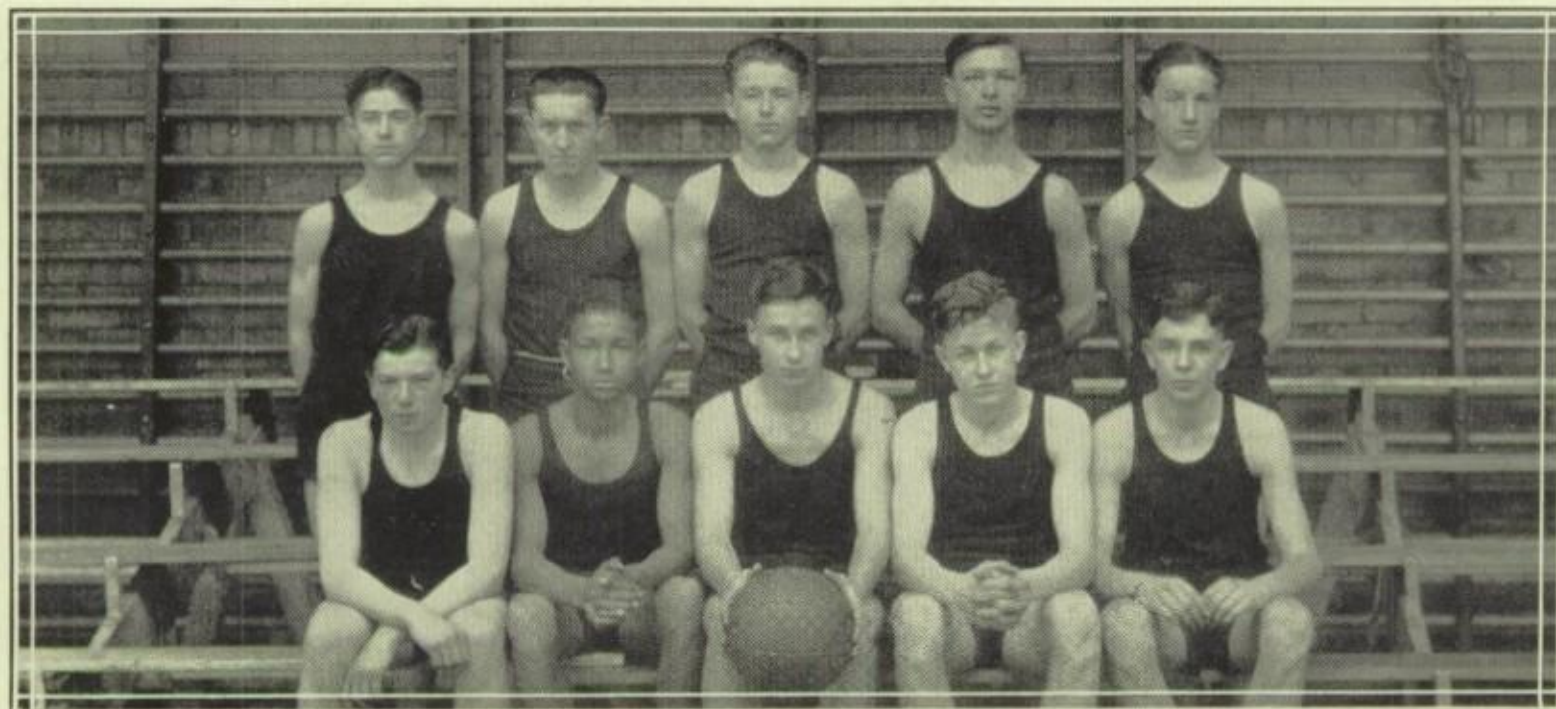

One of the most exciting games was that with the Rochester team in which Pontiac was led by a big margin practically the entire game. At the quarter time Rochester led 10-0 and at the end of the first half they had the same margin, the score being 21-11. During the intermission a great change for the better seemed to come and Pontiac won the game with a one-sided score of 52-39. The will to win overwhelmed the Rochester lads. Another game which ended in a victory for Pontiac was the one with Ferndale. The boys just couldn't keep the ball out of the basket. They shot from angles and practically every shot counted. Sinclair, Matthews, Holliday, Farnsworth, Brice and others helped pile up a score of 63-6.

The concluding game of the season was played with the fast Oak Ridge team, a team which ended well up in its class at the tournament. The final count was 12-11, a very close exciting game in which Pontiac just managed to come out on top.

Some of the boys deserve personal credit for their fine work during the season. Sinclair and Matthews who advanced to the first team were outstanding. Holliday, Hunt, Baker, Brice, Farnsworth, Leffel and others played a big part in giving the team such a fine record.

Basketball, Third Team

FOR the first time a well organized Freshman squad was developed. There was a great amount of material for the team and some very fine experience was gained by those who played.

Matthews, Johnson, Jacobson, Tapley, and Brice were the backbone of the team. Although the season was short and comparatively few games were played, the boys showed up well and should be fine Varsity material in a few years. The squad had a schedule of twelve games and won every one of these. This was a very fine record for any team, especially one with such slight experience.

The game with Walled Lake was as fine an exhibition of ability as could be desired from the boys. Although Pontiac came home victorious, they had to fight for their honor and each player received some valuable training.

Rochester's second team was also played by the third team. Rochester was beaten by a large score. Our boys showed some rare ability in downing the heavier squad of veteran men.

Coach Hartman, who had charge of these boys, believes he has the makings of some future varsity players. Although a great deal could not be done the first year, the boys were given the needed information and experience which is essential in developing the type of player who must fill the shoes of our present regulars.

The valuable experience gained by these fellows will probably serve as a nucleus for future Pontiac High School basketball squads and the practise they went through will also make itself manifest in future teams. Much credit is due Coach Hartman for his development of this raw material.

Intermural Basketball

THE beginning of the Basketball season for '29 and '30 saw the carrying out of a plan which had been in the minds of the coaches for some time. Coaches Johnstone and Hartman felt that the building up of class teams would be a great asset to the school. This proved to be a fine arrangement, for the games played were both interesting and instructive to the players.

Each Session Room had teams which represented them in the tournament that took place to determine the champion of the school. No boy who played on the basketball teams representing the school could participate. These teams were made up of boys who enjoyed basketball but who were unable to make the school teams.

The coaches did not have much time to give to these players, but they did all they could to get them on the right track so that their games would be competitive as well as exciting. This year the boys on the teams elected their own coach and captain. Possibly a better method will be found next year but this seemed to work well.

The Senior team which won the tournament was coached by George Miles, a member of the team. Miles was also captain of the team. George knew basketball fairly well and was able to bring his men through to the finals where they defeated the Juniors in a fast game.

The games which were played in the gym after school were fairly well supported by the students, especially the last game which determined the winner.

The members of the winning Senior team were G. Miles, B. Mogg, K. Kuhne, C. Hampton, F. Garrison, C. McDonald, R. Meacham, G. Ashton and L. Shanks.

Girls' Basketball

AS last year the Girls' Basketball teams were divided into two leagues, the Senior League and the Junior League. Both groups had some nine or ten teams that participated in their respective leagues. The Senior League consisted of girls of the Junior of Senior classes and the Junior League from the lower classes. Three teams were drawn from Eastern Junior High

About fifty girls turned out for the sport, and they were coached by Miss Waterman, Miss Lapisch, and Mrs. Mulvey, all of whom proved themselves able directors. Each team met each of the other teams and the Junior League Champions played the Senior League Champions for the championship of the school. The winning Senior League team, which won both the school and the league championship, was the Wolverines. The players were Edna Knodel, Vernice Allen, Marjorie Kibbe, Ellen LaClear, DeNise Hosner, Ruth Glover, Olevia Kemper, and Myra Babcock. This team played and defeated the Junior League team, White Feathers, consisting of Grace Craddock, Francis Blank, LaVerne Adams, Beatrice Jackson, Alice Murphy, Edna Relly, Orpha Oleson, Rowena Parker, Dorothy Botch, and Helen Cottrell. Each team had its respective captain who directed her team well.

Both leagues had their individual stars, some of whom played a fine brand of basketball. The girls enjoyed the sport and had a great time playing their best in each game. The teams were allowed to practice two nights a week.

The sixteen teams that made up the senior league were: G. A. S., Go-Getters, High Flyers, Red Aces, Black Pirates, Goal Diggers, Black Cats, Ajax Cubs, Tomahawks, Olympians, Bull Dogs, Chief of Sixes, Question Mark, Wild Fire, Owls and White Feathers.

Cross Country

A very enthusiastic response was made to Coach Wiersema's summons for cross country material. Many veterans were among those who were held in which all of the boys competed. These races did a lot toward showing Coach Wiersema what sort of material he had. After a great amount of training and steady, hard work by each of the boys, the team was chosen. The first meet was with Ferndale which the Orange Harriers dropped. The absence of the former star, Criger, told greatly on the outcome of the meet.

The boys next took on the Flint Central team and once more lost the contest. Newman and Chase showed up well. As these boys will be back, the prospects are very good for the next year's team.

At Ann Arbor the Orange met another defeat though they did their best. Renwick managed to give some necessary points to the total. As before, the entire team did some fine running although they were unable to come out on top.

Pontiac travelled to the Regional Meet the next week where they were able to snatch off a fifth place. This was not so bad considering the class of teams they competed against.

The State Meet at Ypsi was more highly contested and the boys managed to make tenth place. Chase, Newman and Renwick did some splendid leg work for the Orange.

At Flint, Northern, and Fordson, Pontiac won. Again Renwick, Chase, and Newman pulled through for points. Davis and Johnson also showed up in fine shape.

As Coach Wiersma felt that a captain was not needed, none was elected. Wiersma decided that for such a small squad the customary leader was not necessary.

There are fine prospects for the next season as only two of the regulars are leaving school.

Track

THE usual large number of track enthusiasts answered the summons which Coach Weldon made early in April. Some seventy boys attended the meeting for track candidates, among them being veterans of two or three years; however, the majority was untried but promising material.

Weldon as before took charge of the squad which reported on the field. With less than a fortnight of training, prospects were great. "Dink" prophesied a team of fine ability before the season was completed, and many of the boys did come through to expectations. Harry Jeremy, a fleet football back, participated on the sprints, showing up well in practice; however, he seemed unable to get his stride when in competition, though he did not do so badly. Martin, a pole-vaulter of two year's experience, started the season well and invariably managed to gain his five points. Captain Stout was also a consistent point-getter, always managing to place well up in the shot and discus. There were others who did their part in piling up points for the Orange victories. Windiate, Chase, Newman, Renwick, Rohm, and Thingstad were among the best 440, 880 and mile runners to compete in the state; also MacNamara, a veteran, showed up well in his favorite, the broad jump. The track team, as well as the basketball team, had its freshman representative; in fact, two of them. Johnson, a husky weight tosser, showed himself a formidable opponent for any contestant, and Kelly, our negro high and broad jumper, was well up in the list of point getters on the squad.

The schedule for this year was one of the most difficult to be followed by Pontiac.

Baseball

AN all-veteran team returned for the baseball season, strengthened by several new players, and were put to work in the gym on March 19, tossing a ball and bunting. Coach Hartman had many good players and turned out the best team Pontiac High has ever had. On the mound, Haines and Oliver were regular pitchers, with Kuhne and French as understudies. The regular players held the following positions: Holliday and Bigler, catchers; Miles and Taylor, first base; Captain Cahill, second base; Oliver and Tapley, third base; Bauer, short stop; Salters and Bowers, right field; Schiefler, center field; and Harry Troxell, left field.

The Pontiac High School batmen opened their season on the local field with a practice game with Rochester which ended 17-8 for Pontiac. The next game was with Oxford which they won easily by 19-2.

The Orangemen journeyed to Flint for their next contest and defeated Central High 4-2.

In the next game Pontiac took in St. Mary's, one of their oldest opponents, for the first time in sixteen years, 4-3. Oliver's homer in the first inning with two on decided the game.

Royal Oak came here and was defeated 7-5 in a scrappy affair. Kuhne blew up in the third and was relieved by Oliver.

Pontiac went to Detroit and added Detroit Northern to its list of victories when Haines pitched a no-hit, no-run game. Schiefler's home run in the first with two on put the game on ice, the final score being 4-0.

Next Birmingham was scalped to the tune of 5-1. Kuhne and Holliday were the battery for this game and Kuhne allowed but two hits.

On another trip to Detroit the local squad lost its first game to Hamtramck, 10-4. This was the first game the Orangemen had lost in eight starts. Five costly errors were made by Pontiac.

Top Row—Donaldson, Bailey, Schultz, Haynes.

Tennis

THE tennis season started later this year on account of the cold weather and it was not until early in May that Coach Wiersema issued a call for candidates. After a long series of eliminations among the twenty-two boys who turned out, Coach Wiersema issued a call for candidates. After a long series of eliminations among the twenty-two boys who turned out, Coach Wiersema selected Richard Bailey, Clyde Royster, and Royce Garrison to compose the team. These were all new members of the team as the entire squad of last year was lost by graduation.

The squad won the first meet of the year by easily beating Log Cabin, 3 to 0. In the singles, Garrison and Bailey won their matches, while Royster and Quarton won the doubles.

In the second meet at Royal Oak the locals lost all three matches. Bailey and Garrison were beaten in each of their single matches, and the doubles team of Royster and Garrison was beaten.

The third meet resulted in another victory for the Chiefs at Rochester, the locals winning two matches to one. Royster won his singles match, Garrison lost the other singles, and Bailey and Royster ran away with the doubles to win the meet.

In the fourth meet at Milford the Chiefs scalped another victim, winning all three matches with ease. Royster won his singles, Bailey the other single, while Garrison and Thomas copped the doubles.

The team performed well considering that none of the players were veterans of the previous year. All but two of this year's squad will be back for play next year and the prospects for a good team are bright.

Cervenka, Stolt, Fenske, Otto, coach; Powers.

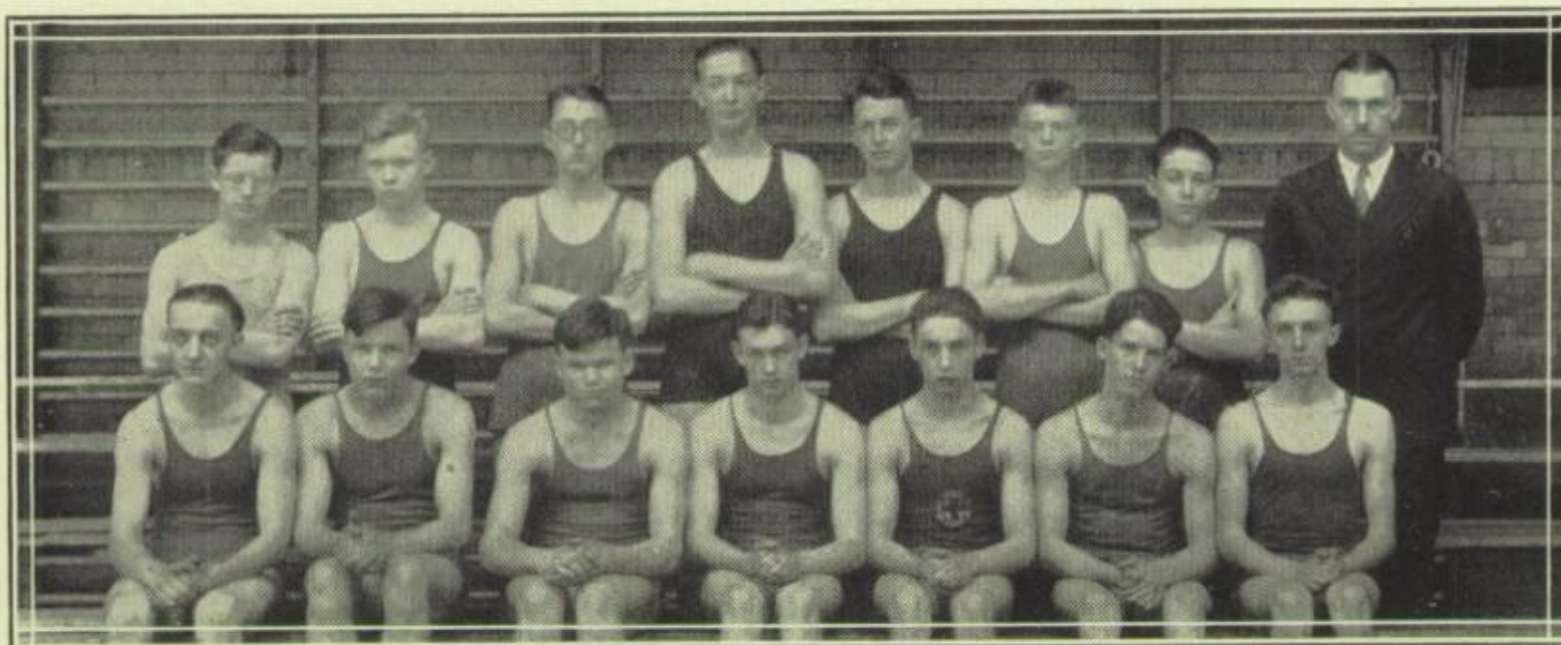

The Golf Team

THIS year's team was under the coaching of Herman Otto. The team was composed of three new men who had very little experience. The team played their first meet with Redford, the state champs, and were defeated by a score of $2\frac{1}{2}$ to $9\frac{1}{2}$. The meet was played on their home course. Charles Kocsis, Redford captain, easily took Ted Powers by 2 up. Russell Oliver, being the only Chief man to take any points, easily downed Wright by $2\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$. Redford is noted all over the state for its golf team. They have not been defeated in the last two years. The last team who defeated them was Pontiac in 1927. Later in the season the Chiefs played Flint and were again downed by a score of 7-5. Fenske and Cervenka of Pontiac scoring the points scored $2\frac{1}{2}$ points each. In this meet Bloom, Flint's first man, defeated Powers of Pontiac, while Stolt of Pontiac was defeated by Parker of Flint. The losing men from Flint were Thomas and Morrison. This meet was played on the Flint Country Club course. Bloom was low for Flint with a 77, while Powers was low for Pontiac with an 84. This year's team was composed of Ted Powers, Emory Stolt, Frank Cervenka, and Tarry Fenske. The substitute was Ernest Leffel.

Fortunately, Pontiac had the Regional Tournament in the past and are hoping to get it this year and next. Every year for the last seven years Pontiac High School has had a good golf team. The team lost three regulars from last year. Golf is very popular and nearly every school in Michigan has a team. Fenske played fourth man and he is only a Freshman; much is expected from this lad in years to come. All the players will be back next year and Pontiac will doubtless take an active part in golf.

In the Regional last year which was held on the Elizabeth Lake Country Club course, were entered such teams as Pontiac, Flint, Ann Arbor, and Dearborn. The same teams are to compete this year.

Swimming Team

COACH Wiersema was well pleased with the turnout that followed his summons for swimming team candidates. Wiersema had had charge of the swimming teams for three years and felt that he should have a fairly good squad this year.

Although the facilities were not of the best, the boys did not do so badly in their contests. They completed the season with a record of four won and six lost. However a much better squad is expected next fall. The team had ten dual meets with various schools of the state and in several the boys showed up well.

The Orange managed to break even with the Flint teams in two meets. The Redford meets were also very good. Although both of these were lost, several of the boys exhibited very fine form in their events. Pontiac also met teams from Ypsi, Royal Oak, Ann Arbor, and Jackson in which meets the Pontiac athletes were able to gain many first and second places.

Among the boys who held berths in the team were only four seniors who will not be able to compete next fall.

Captain Roat, who graduated in the February class, was not able to lead his team through the entire season.

However Roat acquired many points in addition to those gained by his team mates and was on the whole a valuable man to lose.

There were several boys who attained letters for the sport, among them were Seldon, Schaffer, Crowder, Newman, Le Fevre, Linabury, Bowers, Young, McNamara, Bogie, McLeod, and Roat. Of these Seldon was the high point man with forty-seven points. However Schaffer was a close second with forty-six. Crowder and Newman also brought in many points to add to the total.

Tumbling

A VERY successful plan was taken by Mr. Johnstone in building up tumbling teams for the future. As previous teams have not been of the best material, Mr. Johnstone decided the best way to be found to produce better participants was to form a class of under-classmen. The method got under way in February and proved to be very successful.

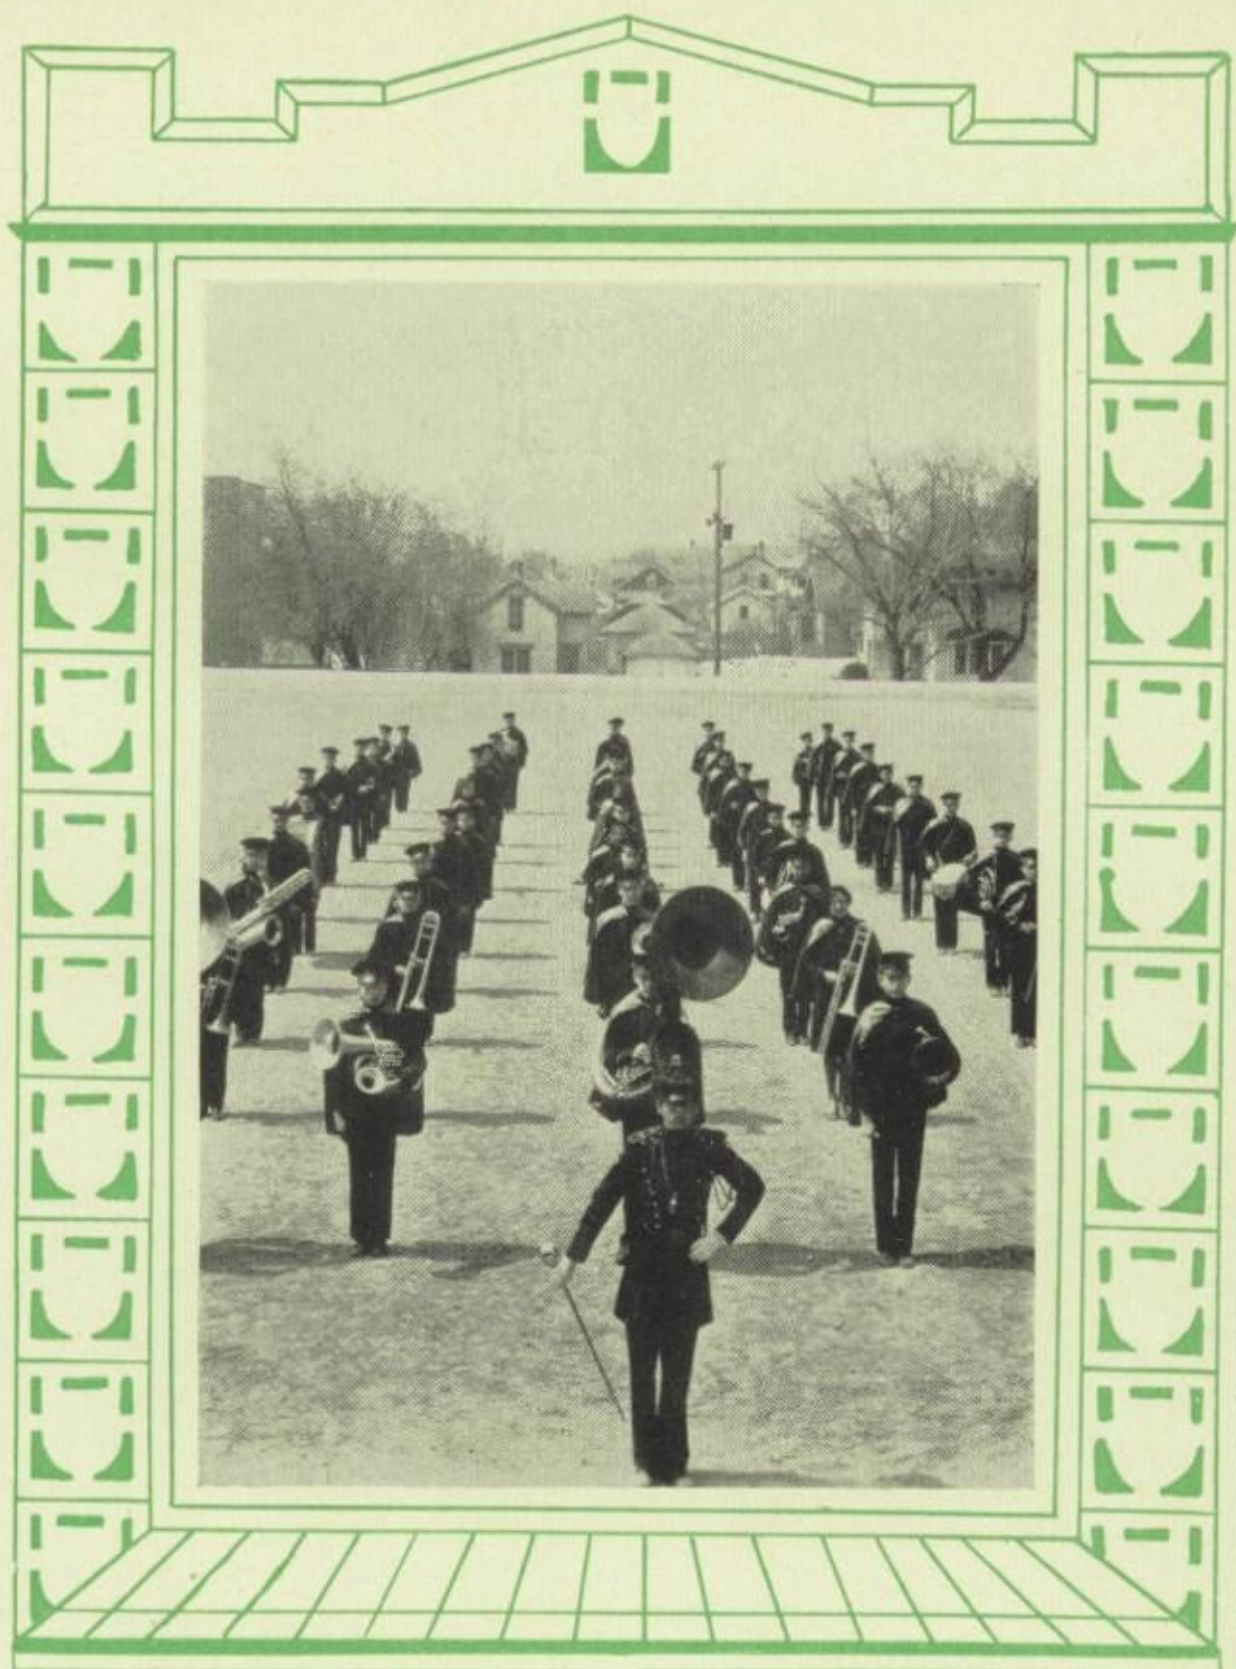

When the tumbling season was opened last year, some twenty boys appeared to be interested in the sport; however, as there were no veterans present, the boys decided they would not be able to obtain a competitive team, so they followed Mr. Johnstone's suggestions.

The plan which Johnstone carried to success was that of forming a tumbling club, a club in which the boys would be able to receive all the necessary fundamentals of tumbling and in which the best might be able to make themselves team candidates for the future.

Mr. Johnstone took full charge of the team, making arrangements to meet the third hour every Wednesday, for this way the boys would get sufficient practice to keep them interested and also would be able to enter other activities. As Mr. Johnstone is himself an able tumbling expert, the experience which the boys gained from him was essential and helpful. Although the more advanced type of tumbling was not taken up, the ropes and parallel bars were used to a great extent. Of course, inexperienced boys would not be able to immediately attempt the harder stunts, so Mr. Johnstone took this into consideration in teaching them the more difficult tricks.

The organization as it stood in February was made up of 35 boys, all fellows who had interest in learning something of tumbling. Although the constant weeding out of those non-competent reduced the squad immensely, the season ended with 20 boys in the Club, each of whom knew many interesting facts about the sport.

MUSIC-DRAMA

"The Bells of

Rancho Ortego would "be as a stick without sap, till the Mission Bells once more ring out at sundown." The Indians steal Ramon's cattle with which he intended to pay the mortgages which will fall due on the next day and which are held by Jake Kraft, who instigates the rustling of the herd.

Marion and her father come West to restore the Mission but cannot raise the money to do so. A gold mine is discovered on the Rancho and Lone Eagle brings the herd back in time to save the Rancho, while Noneeta rings the Mission bells, thus saving Lone Eagle from the vengeance of his fellow men.

There were an unusual number of parts as this opera was written especially for high school students.

Winifred Waters played the part of Marion Alden. Robert Lewis was excellent as Ramon Ortego, the present owner of the Rancho. Marie, Chiquita and Carmelita, Ramon's sisters, were portrayed by Thelma Blynn, Arlene Walton, and Nelle Beebe. The parts of William, James, and Wallace, students from the East, were taken by Robert King, James Unis,

THE fifteenth annual Opera, "The Bells of Capistrano," by Charles Wakefield Cadman, was given by the Pontiac High School before a packed house on Tuesday, April 16.

The story takes place in the southern part of California near the old Capistrano Mission. The land had been taken from the Indians by the Spanish rancher, Ortego, and by the missionaries, who built a mission on the land. The gods of the Indians were so angry that they said the land should crumble and the Secondary leads were taken by Glenn Ashton as Pose, the medicine man; Pauline McCaughan as Noneeta; Dudley Mosure as Lone Eagle; Harold Garrison as Jake Kraft; Joseph Horak as James Alden, and Jerry Welch as Professor Anderson.

The girls of Professor Anderson's class were: Helma Anderson, Thelma Bower, Hannah Booth, Muriel Cameron, Mildred Carter, Melva Coleman, Phyllis Colpus, Myrtle Cook, Ruth Corbett, Alma Davis, Audria Duguid, Rachel Hester, Aleta Howell, Elizabeth Mansfield, Beryl Purdy, Estina Sherrod, Norma Smith, Geraldine Street, Rosa Trick, Verda Vogel, Hilda Wrigley, Janice White, Marjorie White, and Evelyn Wilson.

Those who took the combined parts of cowboys and Indians were: Carson Easton, George Anderson, Malco Grisson, Harry Jeremy, Abe Katchka, Reginald Sutton, James Calver, Charles Countryman, Oliver Crager, James Davidge, Loren Erb, Alan Glynn, Lester Rathbun, Frank Rumbaoa, Elroy Sowter, Walter Sherston, Allen Stevens, and Walter Zelner.

The scenery was especially made for this opera and it was the first public appearance.

"Wappin' Wharf"

THE annual school play, "Wappin' Wharf," the cast of which was chosen at large from the school, was presented in the High School Auditorium on March 21, 22 and 23. This was the first time the school play had been presented on three consecutive nights, but the large advance sales demanded that it be put on a third night so they gave it on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

The play was rather singular for a pirate play as it took place entirely on land.

The play was in three acts and the first act was composed of two scenes. The action takes place on the coast of Devon and for the most part is centered around an old cabin on a cliff. This cabin is the haunt of a group of land pirates who make their living by luring unsuspecting ships on the rocks with a lantern.

Red Joe, who is really the Prince of Wales in disguise, has assumed this way of getting in with the pirates in an attempt to rid the country of these troublesome land pirates.

He has not been with the pirates long before he falls in love with Betsy, the maid of all work of the pirates, who was stolen from her home when she was a mere child. She is really a Duchess in her own right but she is blissfully unaware of the fact.

Red Joe is soon suspected of being other than a pirate lad and a frantic scene ensues in which he is nearly killed but he is rescued by a group of sailors who appear on the scene very opportunely. As Red Joe no longer has any doubt that they have discovered the disguise, he admits that he is the Prince of Wales and proposes to Betsy who of course accepts him. As a wedding gift to Betsy he gives her the freedom of the pirates.

Old Meg, a gypsy fortune teller, foretells the greater part of the play in the first act, giving a mysterious air to the whole play. All of her prophecies come true during the play.

This play was written by Charles Brooks and is a very clever farce on pirate life. The cast was well chosen and gave a very satisfactory performance on each night. Saturday night, however, was just a shade better than the other nights because the cast for this night was chosen by three judges from the two previous performances.

Those members of the cast who took part all three nights are: The Duke, Charles Baker; Patch Eye, Dexter Rohm; The Captain, Clifford Leach; Sailor Captain, Bertram Ketchel; Sailors, James Underwood, Ronald Riley and George Underwood.

The cast had some alternate parts and these included for Thursday night: Red Joe, the Prince of Wales in disguise, Ted Pearson; Betsy, Esther Kovinsky; Darlin', Ione Reed; Old Meg, Evelyn Faulman. For Friday night: Red Joe, George Miles; Betsy, Kathryn Elliott; Darlin', Dulcie Robichaud; Old Meg, Mildred Goldstein.

The cast for Saturday night was composed of those who had done best on Thursday and Friday nights and included: Red Joe, Ted Pearson; Betsy, Kathryn Elliott; Darlin', Ione Reed; Old Meg, Evelyn Faulman.

The acting was all very well done and showed a great deal of work on the part of the cast and Mr. Viola, who directed the presentation.

Boys and Girls Chorus

THE Boys' and Girls' choruses took a great interest in school events throughout the year and this interest was increased by their taking parts in some of the outstanding musical events of the year. The first semester they helped in the song gatherings that were given by the Glee Club before both A and B assemblies. These song meetings were for the purpose of teaching the new school songs to the pupils.

The Boys' Chorus took the parts of the cow-boys and Indians in the annual Opera, "The Bells of Capistrano," which was given by the Glee Club.

The second semester was devoted to study for the annual May Festival. The Boys' and Girls' Choruses combined with the boys and girls of the Glee Club to put on five numbers. Each number was illustrated with an appropriate dance. "Carmena" was carried out with a Spanish dance, the "Minuet in G" was demonstrated by the old-fashioned minuet done in costume, and the "Kerry Dance" was illustrated by a quartet of girls doing the Irish jig.

The members of the choruses were in training to become members of the Glee Club, and for this reason they studied only the best types of music under the direction of Mr. Quayle.

Members of the Boys and Girls Chorus were as follows:

Nettie Adams, Irene Adams, Bessie Baker, Pauline Barton, Grace Bradford, Beatrice Blakeslee, Grace Bradford, Lillian Brester, Frank Bumbaoa, Hazel Burns, Ruth Burns, James Calver, Helen Campbell, Dorothy Coe, Mary Conway, Charles Countryman, Oliver Crager, James Davidge, Lillian Dexter, Jeanette Dull, Vesta Dunham, Iva Dusenbury, Dorothy Edwards, Donna Erb, Loren Erb, Lucille Fler, Helen Franklin, Alan Glynn, Ruth Grant, Evelyn Hatfield, Edith Henry, Rachel Hester, June Hulsapple, Maxine

Glee Club

THE Glee Club has been organized for promotion of good music in the schools. Those who are outstanding in the boys' and girls' choruses are given a try-out by Mr. Quayle and if they have a good voice and show a willingness to work, they are offered the chance to become a member. One does not necessarily have to be talented to be a member of the club but he must know some music and show some initiative and be willing to participate in any event with enthusiasm.

The club has been very active in school events this year. Soon after school opened in the fall they went to Detroit to give the pantomime "Pan" before the Music Convention which took place at Cass Tech High School.

They took part in four assemblies during the year, giving two before each group. The

"A" assemblies consisted of an introduction to the opera, "The Bells of Capistrano," and an assembly for singing the new school songs composed by Mr. Quayle. For the group "B" assemblies they sang a group of songs with appropriate dramatic settings and gave a double assembly consisting of bits from the opera and singing of the new school songs.

The second semester was devoted almost entirely to the opera, "The Bells of Capistrano." This was the first time it had ever been given. The setting takes place in the southern part of California and deals with the restoration of the old Capistrano Mission.

The latter part of the second semester the Club took part in the annual May festival that was given by the students from the music departments of all the grade schools and Junior High Schools.

Members of the Glee Club were as follows:

Helma Anderson, George Anderson, Glenn Ashton, Nelle Beebe, Thelma Blynn, Hannah Booth, Thelma Bower, Ellen Mae Brewer, Sylvia Broom, Muriel Cameron, Mildred Carter, Mildred Clark, Melva Coleman, Phyllis Colpus, Myrtle Cook, Ruth Corbett, Harriet Cowan, Margaret Dalby, Alma David, Audria Duguid, Carson Easton, Kenneth Eaton, Harold Garrison, Malco Grisson, Leah Hess, Rachel Hester, Joe Horak, Robert Irwin, Harry Jeremy, Abe Katchka, Marjorie Kibbe, Robert King, Robert Lewis, Elizabeth Mansfield, Paul ine McCaughan, June McCormick, Dudley Mosuer, Janice Olmstead, Beryl Purdy, Geraldine Racine, Irene Raymond, Geraldine Ruf, Nina Sheffield, Estina Sherrod, Elva Slater, Norma Smith, Evelyn Solomon, Geraldine Street, Reginald Sutton, Ellen Swanson, Esther Swanson, Elizabeth Toynton, Rosa Trick, James Unis, Verda Vogel, Arlene Walton, Winifred Waters, Jerry Welch, Evelyn Wilson, Hilda Wrigley, Ailsa White, Marjorie White, Janice White.

Band

THE Pontiac High School Band had more members than in any other year in the history of the school. The adding of new members to its number also added a wider variety of instruments and increased its ability.

Pontiac High School had good reason to be proud of her Band and the spirit that was shown by it during the year. The director, Dale C. Harris, should be given a great amount of credit for the manner in which it performed.

School spirit was shown by the Band by the fact that the Band played at all the pep meetings and also at all the home games in basketball, football and most of the baseball games during the season. They also played at two football games away from home, one at Port Huron and another at Flint.

Most important of all the school events in which they took part, however, was their entry in the State Contest held at Lansing on May 2 and 3. Here they placed fourth by a very close decision. All work was declared to be exceptionally well done.

They played for the June Commencement exercises. This was the first time the Band had ever participated in the graduation exercises and their playing was exceptionally well done.

The band took part in the May festival this year. This annual festival is put on by the Music departments under the direction of Mr. Quayle and includes all the work done by the different schools during the year. The Band played three numbers to illustrate the quality of the music they have been studying. They studied only the best music during the year and the numbers they gave were especially well done.

Band

They went to Eastern Junior High School to give a concert. This concert was to stimulate interest in the boys and girls of the school as they will be members of the Pontiac High School in the future and the object is to create a bigger Band with better qualities by training the children in the grades and Junior High in preparation for the entry to the Pontiac High School Band.

Orchestra

THE Orchestra, under the direction of Dale C. Harris, improved a great deal this year. Their study consisted of the best kinds of music, and they improved their ability to read music and gained a better quality of intonation.

They were very active in school events during the school year, participating in several of the assemblies as well as taking part in the mid-year commencement and playing for the Six-in-One Act plays the first semester. The second semester was devoted almost entirely to practice for the school play "Wappin' Wharf," and the annual school opera, "The Bells of Capistrano."

This was the first time that they had ever played for the school opera and they did very well, supplying music nearly as good as that of the professional orchestras used in previous years.

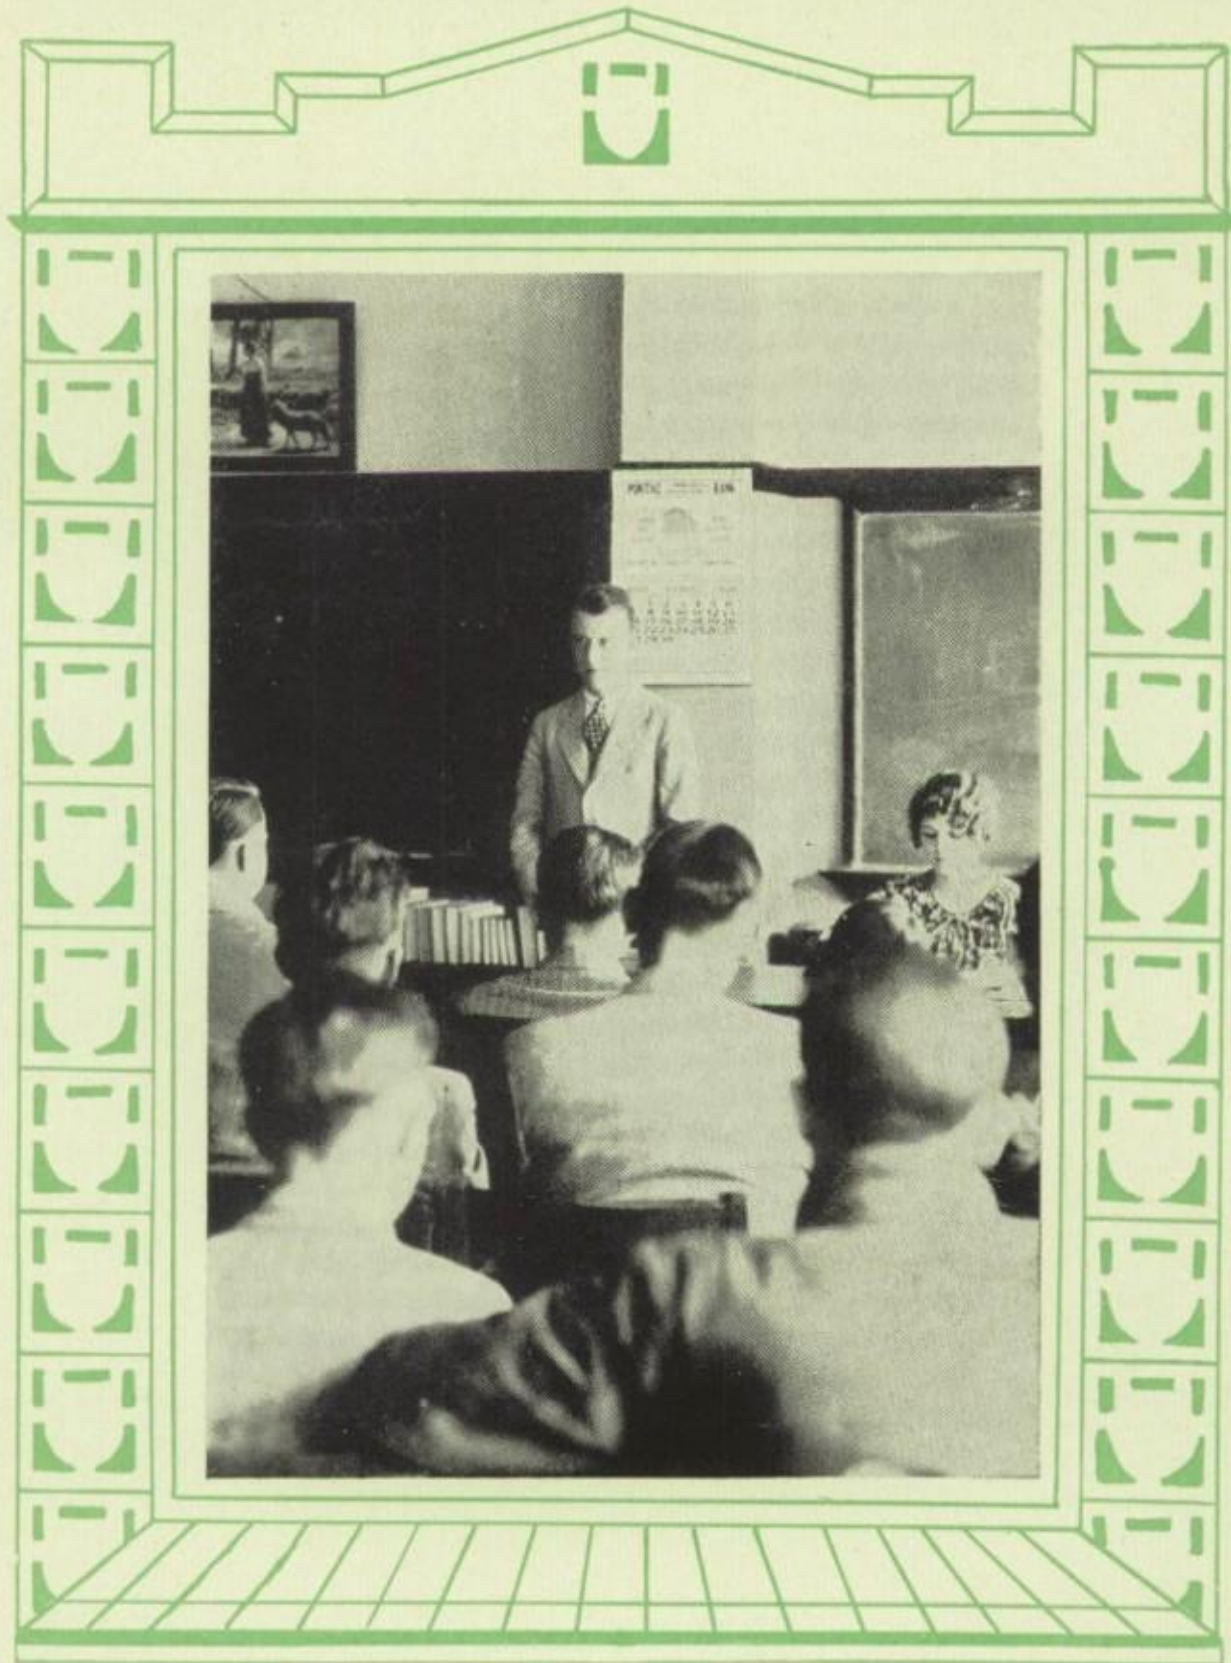

The Orchestra also won fifth place in the State Contest held at Lansing on May 2 and 3 by a very close margin, there being only the difference of one point between third, fourth, and fifth places. The difference between first and fifth places consisted of only six points.

The National

THE chapter of the National Honor Society in Pontiac was founded in May, 1924, with twenty-five charter members. Since then exceptional students have been chosen every semester.

The honor of being elected to the National Honor Society is the highest that can be attained by any student of the Junior or Senior classes. No Junior has ever been awarded the honor in Pontiac, however. To be chosen the student must excel in leadership, scholarship, character and service. One must be a leader in his school life, in the upper fourth of his class, of high moral character, and also willing to serve his school at all times. Members are selected by the faculty.

A number of years ago there was a number of honor societies in different sections of the country, differing in requirements to a great extent. The idea of a National Honor Society was advanced and put into practice by Dr. Wm. B. Owen, principal of the South Side Academy at Chicago. Its growth has been very rapid and now there are chapters throughout the country.

The emblem chosen for the society was a keystone, a flaming torch, and the letters C,

QUIVER

C, L, and S. The keystone represents the holding together of the arch of life and insuring of perpetual stability.

During the first semester of this year, the faculty selected the following students from the February Class: Martha Barnhart, Erwin Boynton, Louise Cherdavoine, Florine Isgrigg, Jay Jacobson, Vera Tschudowski, James Campbell and Gladys Roden. At the same time eight students from the June class were selected. They were: Donald Adams, Susanne Bachelder, Esther Carhart, Phyllis Colpus, Ada Ruth Meyer, Richard Racine, Carl Snelling, and George Stout.

Seventeen students were elected the second semester, fifteen from the June class and two from the February, 1930, class. Those chosen from the June class were: June Best, Melva Coleman, Ruth Corbett, Kathleen Dickie, Donald Francis, Olevia Kemper, James Lewis, Stanley McGaughan, Charles Renwick, Georgia Ricketts, Harry Troxell, Reva Walker, Arlene Walton, Myron Wambaugh, and Mary Ellen Webster. Esther Kovinsky and Lillian Barbour were chosen from the February class.

The Quiver

SINCE several new units were added to Pontiac High School in 1929, the building theme was chosen as the art motif. As this issue marked the thirtieth edition of the Quiver, everything possible was done to improve the book.

Last year in April the Junior class selected Richard Racine as editor from the candidates chosen by the Board of Publications. He began his work at once and has done it faithfully and well. His first task was picking his staff. He made the following selections: June Best, business manager; George Miles, advertising manager; Stanley McGaughan, photographic editor; Ruth Corbett and Alice Smith, art editors; Gertrude Stevens, class editor; George Stout, sport editor; Donald Adams and Mary Windiate, activity editors; Georgia Ricketts and Lucille Reed, feature editors; Phyllis Colpus, music and drama editor; and Mary Ellen Webster, humor editor.

The faculty members were Miss Ethel Lighterness, literary adviser, and Mr. Earl K. Wyman, business adviser.

Pictures were used extensively throughout the book to bring out the theme. Illustrations from the felling of the trees to the completed units were used. Campus views that emphasized the beauty of the setting and the size of the school were chosen. One of the special features of the book was a pencil sketch of the building entrance.

Top Row—Best, McGaughan, Smith, Corbett.
Bottom Row—Miles, Reed, Ricketts, Wyman.

The Quiver

All the art work was done by the art staff, composed of Ruth Corbett and Alice Smith. The designs for this were taken from various decorations of the school building.

The beauty of the book was enhanced by a green cover trimmed with gold, and a lotus green tint blocks on the pages throughout the book.

In order that the February seniors could subscribe, the sales campaign was held after the Christmas holidays. It was opened by an assembly given to both groups representing the various sections of the book. During the two weeks period, over seventy per cent of the student body bought Quivers and more were sold than ever before. Because of the increased sale the advertising section was materially reduced.

Four delegates, Richard Racine, Ruth Corbett, June Best and Stanley McGaughan, were sent to the Michigan Interscholastic Press Association Conference at Ann Arbor.

Barbara Hall was elected by the Juniors as the editor for the 1930 Quiver and she chose her staff this year. This enabled them to get practical experience from the present staff.

Among the annuals of the nation, the 1928 Quiver was awarded the mark of Pacemaker which is the highest rank given. Frank Riley was editor of the book last year.

This Quiver is presented to the student body by the staff, who hope it will be a pleasant reminder of the eventful year of 1929.

The Tomahawk

PERHAPS the most important event that the Tomahawk did this year was sponsoring the conference of the Southeastern Michigan Press Association. Delegates from the publications of eighteen schools were entertained by the Tomahawk staff. Professor Hyde of the University of Wisconsin was the principal speaker of the convention.

During the year the staff tried to live up to the following ideals which constitute its creed: To give accurate, truthful, clean, unprejudiced information; to promote high standards of scholarship in the student body; to give publicity to all school activities; and to promote clean sportsmanship, thrift, honesty, and self-government by the students. The Tomahawk is a charter member of the National Scholastic Press Association, which was created last year.

A total of thirty-three issues were edited during the year. There were three eight-page issues and a large number of six-page ones published.

One issue was largely devoted to the annual Six-in-One act plays presented by the dramatics department. This was an eight-page issue put out by the Tomahawk. Another eight-page issue was published when the new units of the school building were opened. A blue print and other interesting facts about the new addition were printed.

In November after election an extra was edited. The results of the mock school election, as well as the national results, were published.

As a large number of subscriptions were sold, the staff published the Hatchet. This consisted of an issue similar to the Tomahawk except that all the articles were humorous.

Another extraordinary feature was a magazine published and financed by the Tomahawk. This was called the Totem Pole and was edited by James Lewis. Literary writings of students were printed in this magazine which was published twice during the year.

Before the close of school last year, Ada Ruth Meyer was chosen editor-in-chief of the Tomahawk. The staff was appointed later, and a few changes were made during the year.

The second semester Elizabeth Sparks was news editor; Barbara Hall, assistant editor; Lillian Barbour, editorial writer; Ted Pearson, cartoonist; and James Lewis, magazine editor.

The business staff was the same both semesters with the exception of the bookkeeper. Ralph Main was business manager; Meyer Kershenbaum, advertising manager; William Bolin, advertising assistant; James Underwood, circulation manager; and Gladys Wethey and Rleon Holecomb, bookkeepers.

Staff writers for the first semester were: Barbara Hall, Lillian Barbour, Marion Beardslee, Mildred Goldstein, Francis Bostwick, Vera Tschudowski, Gail Patton, Elizabeth McLaren, Amy Cooper, Mary Townsend, Edith Howarth, Blanche Posthumus, Sylvia Rapaport, Melva Coleman, Juliette Kent, Mary Ellen Webster, and Arnold Sukrow.

For the second semester the Tomahawk had the following staff writers; Mildred Goldstein, Blanche Posthumus, Elizabeth McLaren, May Seefried, Amy Cooper, Mary Townsend, Melva Coleman, and Arnold Sukrow.

Typists were Thelma Clemence, Orpha Howey, Gene Elizabeth Ackley, Arnold Sukrow, Agnes Wixom, and Reva Walker.

Helen Hunt and Earl K. Wyman were the faculty advisors.

To secure a larger number of subscriptions, a contest was held among the members of the staff. It was won by Elizabeth Sparks. Subscriptions were made for the semester or the year. The papers were distributed by members of the staff to the lockers of subscribers on the days of publication.

As usual the Tomahawk sent delegates to the M. I. P. A. convention at Ann Arbor. The delegates were Ada Meyer, Barbara Hall, and Meyer Kershenbaum.

Elizabeth Sparks was chosen as editor of the 1930 Tomahawk.

Student Council

First Semester

THE Student Council is an organization of representative students chosen from their respective classes. The aim of the council is to promote school spirit and to discuss questions that are of vital interest to the student body as a whole, in order that they may be decided in the most feasible way.

At the first meeting of the Student Council, George Roe was elected president; Robert St. Clair, vice president; Michael Cahill, treasurer; Eleanor Riker, secretary; and Harry Brown, sergeant-at-arms.

Each semester the president of the Student Council appoints members to serve on the social and assembly committees. George Roe appointed George Hawn, Denton Bettens, Florine Isgrigg, Ruth Corbett, and Martha Barnhart to act with five teachers on the social committee. On the assembly committee he appointed George Stout, James Campbell, Kenneth Pearson, Ardath Mumbrue, and Robert Halliday also to act with five teachers.

On November 2nd a matinee dance was sponsored by them in the gym. They decorated the goal posts for the Jackson game, one goal post with the Jackson High School colors and the other with our own Orange and Black. Also a parade was sponsored before this game, and prizes for the two best decorated cars were given. December 7th will be remembered as the first "Tramp Day." Prizes for the most characteristic costumes were awarded by the Student Council.

Members of the Student Council, first semester, were as follows:

Jean Ayers, Margaret Ayers, Sylvia Barnett, Nelle Beebe, Devere Bigler, Thelma Blynn, Willard Boardman, Ruth Bower, Harry Brown, Michael Cahill, James Calver, Bruce Coleman, Clifford Hickmott, Joe Horak, DeNise Hosner, Ethel Howard, Jerry Hummel, Florine Isgrigg, Donald Johns, Gladys Klein, Esther Kovinsky, Harold Krohn, James Lewis, Mary McCrindle, Stanley

Student Council

Second Semester

AT the first meeting, the beginning of February, the members of the Student Council for the second semester elected George Stout, president; Margaret Ayers, vice-president; John Lyons, treasurer; June Best, secretary; and John Keyser, Sergeant-at-Arms. However, by the next meeting, George Stout had discovered that it was contrary to the constitution to hold the office of president when one was president of the Senior class, so he was ineligible. George Miles was elected to fill the vacancy. It was voted at one of the first meetings that the Student Council erect some kind of a memorial for George Roe, the former president of the Student Council, so a committee was appointed and a suitable memorial was decided upon. Encouragement of thrift has been one of their aims this semester. On April fifth they sponsored a matinee dance called an "Easter Tea Dance" in the gym and, although it was rather warm, everyone had a good time. The History Club orchestra furnished the music. When spring first started to make its appearance, the Student Council voted that they help clean up the campus, so one bright and sunny afternoon all the ambitious boys helped in making this a success. The Student Council was organized in September, 1925. The meetings have been held regularly the third period every Tuesday.

Members of the Student Council, second semester, were as follows:

The Playcrafters

THE Playcrafters are a group of dramatically inclined students who have participated in the "Six in One," the school play, or are dramatic students. The club was organized by the cast of the annual school play in 1926. Membership is obtained only by the consent of the whole club.

At their first meeting in September they elected Theodore Pearson, president; Barbara Hall, vice president; Gertrude Stevens, secretary; and Clifford Leach, treasurer. One of the outstanding activities of the club the first semester was a visit to Cranbrook. Another was the Parents' Reception for which Bonnie Eriksen was general chairman. She was aided by several very efficient committees. The Playcrafters' Ball was held at Christmas time, making it a Christmas party at which gifts were given. Lewis Wortman was the general chairman.

The second semester the club elected Barbara Hall as their president; Katherine Elliott, vice president; Helen Snyder, secretary; and Esther Kovinsky, treasurer. The club planned another visit to Cranbrook and also visited the Civic Theater in a body to see one of their plays. In April they held another Parents' Reception. At their regular meetings plays were presented and dramatic subjects were discussed.

Members of the Playcrafters were as follows:

Susanne Bachelder, Charles Baker, Bernice Beard, Marion Beardslee, Eleanor Churchill, Pauline Clement, Kathryn Elliott, Evelyn Faulman, Mildred Goldstein, Clifford Foster, Beulah Gale, Ruth Gidley, Ruth Glover, Arthur Goff, Barbara Hall, DeNise Hosner, John Keyser, Esther Kovinsky, Ellen LaClear, Lila LeRoy, Clifford Leach, Elizabeth McLaren, Ada Meyer, George

House of Representatives

EVERY Friday the third period members of the House of Representatives assemble in the Little Auditorium. For the first semester they elected Clifford Leach, speaker of the House; Charles Baker, clerk; Eunice Shultz, assistant clerk; and Albert Quarton, sergeant-at-arms.

The meetings are carried on as nearly as possible like the House of Representatives at Washington. The house is divided into two sides, the Liberals and Conservatives. Some very interesting discussions are carried on. Also each representative is given a state which he represents in debates. It is very interesting to note the change that has taken place the last few years. When the House of Representatives was first organized, boys were the only ones that took advantage of the organization, but in late years girls as well as boys have participated. The experience one gets from being a member is very helpful, because one becomes acquainted with parliamentary rules and also the bashful students get accustomed to talking with people present.

For the second semester, Carl Snelling was elected speaker; Eunice Shultz, clerk; Richard Bailey, assistant clerk; and Theodore Pearson, sergeant-at-arms.

Members of the House of Representatives were as follows:

During the football season the club sold pencils with the schedule printed on them, placed advertisements of games in store windows, provided programs at some of the important games, and sold candy. The schedules for basketball, track, and baseball were also printed on pencils and sold.

At the Christmas season, several baskets were made up and distributed in the city.

At the meetings during the year two speakers were enjoyed. John Johnstone spoke on athletics and Dr. Aaron of India spoke on "Boy Life in India." The other meetings were devoted to business and Bible discussion groups.

The officers for the year were President, George Stout; Vice President, Dudley Mosure; Secretary, Arnold Thingstead; Treasurer, Dexter Rohm; Chaplains, Lyle Passmore and Carl Snelling; and Sergeant-at-arms, Max Selle. Mr. Thors and Mr. Bevington acted as faculty advisers.

A program was given by the group to the Oakland County Infirmary. The club went as a body to Rochester where they were entertained by the group there.

Melva Coleman was sent as a delegate to the Mid-Winter Conference held this year at Grand Rapids.

Natural Science Club

THE other Science Club in Pontiac High School is the Biology Club or later called the Natural Science Club. It was composed of members who were interested along biological lines.

At their regular meetings reports were given. Some very interesting reports were presented to the club members on dogs. Their habits and the different breeds were discussed. Also other reports were given on habits of other animals; their furs were discussed in regard to their value and use. A very interesting report was given by one of the members on grafting and budding.

This club was organized with the development of club leadership in mind. Carl LeFevre was elected president for the first semester; Woodward Bray, secretary; and Dallas Folsom, treasurer. Physical Science Club

UPON the organization of the Physical Science Club, a great deal of scientific research was started in Pontiac High School. Last year it was discovered that the Science Club was too large a club for anyone to derive much benefit from it, so the faculty and students decided to separate it into two distinct groups; the Natural and Physical Science Clubs.

Anyone who was interested along chemical or physical lines was eligible to membership to the Physical Science Club.

At their regular meetings reports were given on subjects that were of interest to the majority of the members. These reports were derived from information the student had obtained through reading in the library or through outside sources. Also demonstrations that were of unusual interest were carried out. These experiments were done in the class room or laboratory.

At one of the first meetings in September, Harold Saxman was elected president; Rona'd Riley, vice president; Albert Quarton, Jr., secretary; Erwin Boynton, treasurer; and George Chamberlain, sergeant-at-arms. For the second semester, Norman Windiate was elected president; James Unis, vice president; Albert Quarton, secretary; Harold Wert, treasurer; and Harold Saxman, sergeant-at-arms.

Debate Team

MORE interest was shown in debating this term than in the past several years. The administration of the school did very much to help the team. C. F. Varner was secured to teach debating and to coach the squad. A class in debate was set for the last hour every day. This enabled the team to continue its study as long as necessary after school and also gave them an early start in case of practice debates.

The proposition for debate in the Michigan High School Debating League for this last year was "Resolved, That a Federal Subsidy for the Development of an American Merchant Marine Would Be a Wise National Policy." Pontiac was not very successful this year and did not get into the first elimination.

The squad was composed of Barbara Hall, Ethel Howard, Doris Legg, Donald Adams, Eunice Shultz, George Underwood, Edwin Murray, and Celina Hall.

Pontiac was assigned the affirmative side for the first two contests. Flint won from the Pontiac team composed of Barbara Hall, Ethel Howard, and Donald Adams. Ethel Howard was a sophomore and it was her first league debate. The decision of the judges was two for Flint and one for Pontiac. Lansing was the second league opponent, and their team was victorious by a two to one decision.

Then the negative side was taken by Pontiac and they won their first victory from Saginaw Eastern by a split decision. Ethel Howard was first speaker; Donald Adams, second; and Barbara Hall, third.

In the final debate Pontiac lost by a unanimous decision to River Rouge. Professor Myskenes of the University of Michigan acted as expert judge for this contest.

A much better spirit was aroused at the home debates. Enthusiastic crowds were present and encouraged the team. Even at the practice debates the team had fair audiences. Several students accompanied the team to out-of-town contests.

In preparation for next year, a class of debate theory was organized and better success is hoped for next year.

Senatus Romanus

SEVERAL years ago Miss LeRoy organized the Latin Club to promote interest in Latin in this school. The name selected for the organization was "Senatus Romanus."

At the club meetings every two weeks many interesting reports were given by members, and articles of interest concerning other Latin clubs were also discussed. Occasional musical selections added interest to the meetings. At the invitation of the History Club the Senatus Romanus heard Miss Maddaugh speak on her trip to Italy. One meeting was devoted to the making of Roman costumes, which were used at the Roman banquet. Latin games and spell-downs were held occasionally.

The activities of the club were largely of a social nature and included several events of various natures. At Hallowe'en a masquerade was held at the home of Gene Ackley. Games and stunts of the usual nature were played. The club was entertained by Miss LeRoy in December according to the ancient custom of the Saturnalia celebrations. Supper was served and gifts were exchanged. After school one night the group held a toboggan party.

The chief event of the year was the Roman banquet sponsored by the club. It was held in the early part of May. All former members, Latin students, and parents were invited.

For the first semester the Latin Club elected the following officers: president, Roberta Jackson; vice president, Jessie Kerschner; secretary, Ardath Mumbrue; treasurer, Mary Townsend.

The second semester the officers were: president, Esther Carhart; vice president, James Lewis; secretary, Donald Adams; and treasurer, Jessie Kerschner.

Le Cercle Français

AS ITS PURPOSE the French Club endeavored to increase the knowledge of French and to create a greater interest in the subject.

During the year the club made several improvements. A French name was selected for the organization, "Le Cercle Français." A constitution was formed and accepted and also a pin was chosen for the club. An interesting feature of the group was that as much French as possible was used. The secretary's report was always given in French.

Again this year the club presented an assembly program of the French play "Par Un Jour De Pluie," or "The Rainy Day." All the speaking was done in French.

Each program was in charge of a different chairman, but all were planned to be in accord with the purpose of the club. In order that the members might speak better French, several meetings were devoted to French games. A French spell-down was held at one meeting.

One of the special treats was a talk in French by Mrs. Wooding, who spoke on French holidays. Afterwards she gave the English translation.

Other programs consisted of reports by members. Brittany, Joan of Arc, French Scientists and Authors, were some of the topics. An excellent meeting was devoted to the sports of France. Miss Avery, the faculty adviser, gave interesting comments on these and showed pictures of many of the places mentioned.

Officers the first semester were: president, Lissum LaValley; vice president, Arnold Sukrow; secretary, Raymond Huntwork; and treasurer, Claude Hampton.

Members of Le Cercle Français were as follows:

Richard Bailey, Virena Bone, Esther Carhart, Melva Coleman, Amy Cooper, Richard Curtis, Harriet Day, Beatrice Ducharm, Parker Hamil-

Der Deutsche Verein

ONE of the new clubs organized this year was the German Club. The group selected a German name for itself, "Der Deutsche Verein." At the beginning of the year, it was decided to organize for only one semester to see if interest would be shown for such a group. Although German has been taught only for the past few years, a fair-sized group became organized. All were interested and it was decided to continue the club for the second semester.

The purpose was to form a club for those who had some knowledge of German and who were interested in it. A constitution, drawn up in German by a committee headed by Vera Tschudowski, was accepted by the group.

Programs were devoted to arts, customs and items of German interest. Each meeting was in charge of a different person so that various topics were discussed. Music of German composers was played. Literature of Germany formed another topic. At one meeting the school system was discussed. One meeting was devoted to a German spell-down. At Christmas time a basket was given to a needy German family in the city.

The club has not engaged in many social activities. During the winter months a skating party was held. The club also attended a theater party. One regular meeting was in the form of a party and refreshments were served.

Mr. Hodgdon acted as faculty adviser. At the beginning of the first semester the members elected the following officers: president, Bruce Edgar; vice president, Martha Barnhart; secretary, Wesson Schultz; and treasurer, Elda Leaske.

For the second semester Bruce Edgar was again chosen president. The other officers selected were: vice president, Goldie Noble; secretary, Henrietta Fenske; and treasurer, Edna Fenske.

At the first business meeting in September, Angeline Rosen was elected president; Florence Eustice, vice president; Agnes Wixom, secretary; and Mary Beadle, treasurer. The club was organized in December, 1925, and meetings were held once a month. Outside business men and women were invited to talk on subjects that were of interest to a commercial group of students. They discussed and outlined what is expected of one upon going out into the business world for the first time. These talks proved beneficial in a great many ways, as well as very interesting. Ralph Lee, from the Pontiac Commercial and Savings Bank, was one of the outside speakers the club was fortunate enough to secure to talk to them. At another of their meetings a play was presented which was very well given.

The second semester the club elected Ruth Roberts president; Dorothy Calvert, vice president; Mary Babcock, secretary; and Orpha Howey, treasurer. A picnic was held the last part of May for all Commercial Club students. Mr. Springman was faculty adviser.

FOR those who were interested in music, the Operatic Club was organized by Mr. Quayle. This year the group added many new members.

The greatest accomplishment of the year was the production of the annual opera. The opera selected was "The Bells of Capistrano," written by Charles W. Cadman. The parts were well taken and a large audience was present.

An assembly was also presented to Group B in January. The program consisted of solos, readings, and choruses by the club. Glenn Ashton was in charge of this program.

Programs were also presented at the Eastern

Junior High School and at the Oakland County Infirmary.

The group had a social gathering at Hallowe'en. Dancing was the chief attraction, but a program of solos, dances, and other features was also presented.

Gift Club

A VERY interesting club that was organized this last year was the Gift Club. It was composed entirely of girls who spent their time at the meetings making attractive gifts. The girls divided into small groups and each group made or did the same thing. During the year they made boudoir pillows, embroidered towels, dressed French dolls, made flowers and pocket-books, covered and painted coat hangers, or made anything a girl especially would want to own. During their meetings they were sometimes entertained by musical selections which were very well given and much appreciated.

At Christmas time a delightful Christmas program was given, and at the end a Christmas tree, attractively decorated, was enjoyed by all the members.

In June a delightful time was had by the club members at a picnic which was held at Sylvan Park. Dorothy Holmes was chosen to take charge of the arrangements. She had a number of efficient committees working with her.

In the fall, at the beginning of the first semester, the club elected the following officers: Virginia Treen, president; Peggy Markley, vice president; Mary Pryne, secretary; and Dorothy Holmes, treasurer. In February the members of the second semester's club chose as their officers the following: Madalene Allen, president; Marguerite Page, vice president; Peggy Markley, secretary; and Patricia Johnson, treasurer. Miss Day, who acted as faculty adviser, was a great help to the members. Miss Lighterness was assistant adviser.

Members of the Gift Club were as follows:

Cartoon Club

ANOTHER of the new clubs that grew out of what was formerly the English Club was the Cartoon Club. It was first organized last September. It was composed of members who were interested in sketching and cartoons. For the first semester Robert Weber was elected president; Jack MaNamara, vice president; William Miles, secretary; Charles Chandler, treasurer; and Eleanor Heath, reporter.

For the second semester Ottis Briney proved to be a very efficient president and was worthy of the election. Kenneth Thayer was elected vice president; La Veta Bell, secretary; Clifford Wright, treasurer; Eleanor Heath, reporter; and Lily Robertson, chairman of the program committee. Mrs. McAdams was the club adviser.

At one of the meetings a very interesting talk was given by Harold Gardner, a former student of Pontiac High School. Mr. Gardner, in former years, had shown a very marked ability along this line, so proved to be a very interesting speaker. He also illustrated his talk by a number of sketches. Mr. Gardner was the art editor of the Quiver last year.

At the last of the semester a party was held. Lily Robertson served as general chairman of the affair. She was assisted by several committees.

The Cartoon Club is one of the smaller clubs of the school but has been a very interesting one.

Members of the Cartoon Club were as follows:

Edward Beauchene, La Veta Bell, Ottis Briney, Charles Chandler, Edward Cornell, Harriett Cowan, Dallas Folsom, Eleanor Heath, Ted Jordan, Charles Kath, James Larsen, George

Interluders

ANOTHER club that grew out of the English Club was the Interluders Club. The Interluders were organized for the first time last September. One of the outstanding accomplishments of the club was a play which was presented in both A and B assemblies. The title of the play was "Rooms to Let." The plot was very interesting, with amusing complications. The main parts were very well taken by Doris Fisher, Agnes Stevenson, Charles Paulson, and Norman Todd.

The club members also read and discussed modern plays at their meetings. Most of the plays dealt with college scenes. Also attempts were made to write a play, with careful study of play construction. At the last of the second semester the members enjoyed a party.

The officers that were elected to guide the club were: Norman Todd, president; Doris Fisher, vice president; Mary Jean Barrett, treasurer; and Helen Prosser, secretary. Miss Paris was club adviser.

Members of the Interluders Club were as follows:

field, Elva Slater, Agnes Solomon, Glen Solomon, Agnes Stevenson, Leona Stier, Eleanor Stinson, Lenore Stuart, Ellen Swanson, Esther Swanson, Norman Todd, Margaret Trone, Joy Tuggle, Joann Wilson, Wilfred Woods.

Current Lits

ANOTHER division of the former English Club is the Current Lits Club. The club met twice every month. At these meetings the members spent their time studying current literature. For the first semester the club enjoyed a visit to the Ferry Seed Farm near Rochester. This was in the autumn when the seeds were being collected. A great deal of information was gained by all the students. This was the special meeting the club enjoyed for the first semester.

Juliette Kent was elected president; William Bolin, vice president; Octavia Hamilton, secretary; Nathan Rosen, treasurer; Helen Morgan, club reporter; and Margaret Ayers, program chairman.

On March first the members enjoyed a delightful evening spent at a party at the home of the president, Juliette Kent, on Franklin Boulevard. During the evening everyone participated in games which were very much enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served.

On March twenty-second, at the Oakland County Teachers' Institute, Japanese prints and candy were sold. The sale proved very successful.

Juliette Kent was again elected president of the club for the second semester, and also William Bolin served his second term as vice president. Thelma Blynn was elected secretary; Helen Morgan, treasurer; and Dorothy Howey, club reporter.

Members of the Current Lit Club were as follows:

Margaret Ayers, Audrey Bird, Thelma Blynn, William Bolin, Ethel Carter, Mildred Carter, Ruth Copeland, Dorothy Ford, Joe Fruechtel, Ray Garrett, Beatrice Griffin, Octavia Hamilton, Gilbert Healy, Dorothy Howey, Maxine Karr, Juliette Kent, Malcolm McArthur, Magdalin Moote, Helen Morgan, Mary Owen, Fransiska Peterson, Geraldine Racine, Beatrice Reed, Marie Rightmeyer, Garnette Rogers, Nathan Rosen, Mildred Rorabacher, Charles Wood.

Home Economics

ONE of the most interesting clubs in the school was the Home Economics Club. It was composed of girls who were interested along domestic lines. At one of the meetings movies were shown dealing with the subject of construction of textiles. This described the different steps that the fiber had to go through before it was made into cloth. Table etiquette was discussed and demonstrated. Also proper etiquette on different occasions was talked about. A study was made, too, of family and personal budgets which proved to be a great help to some upon entering college. "Descriptions of Grecian Homes," by Dena Trientas, was also studied. At some of their meetings the girls made scrap books for the children in the hospital. "First Aid to Clothing" kits for the girls to have in their lockers also was one of their many achievements.

When election of officers was held, Gladys Stevens was made president; Blanche Kimball, first vice president; Mildred Rich, second vice president; Ellen Barrett, secretary; and Ethel Travis, treasurer. Miss Hunter and Miss Gaylord were the advisers of the club.

Members of the Home Economics Club were as follows:

Ellen Barrett, Margaret Boodway, Thelma Coudrey, Dorothea Deere, Romaine Golden, Beryl Griffin, Helen Hallet, Josephine Harper, Rosa Harper, Leona Hottman, Tranquita Kay, Blanche Kimball, Gladys Klein, Elsa Larson, Annabelle Noble, Thelma Predmore, Mildred Rich, Lois Ross, Eva Schneider, Marion Sherston, Bernice Skinner, Gladys Stevens, Ethel Travis.

Bottom Row—Henry, Walton, Westphal, Allchin, Hunter, Corbett, Olmstead.

Social Committee

FOUR years ago it was decided to establish a committee whose purpose would be to further and regulate the social activity of the high school. The plan proved successful and the social committee has been continued.

All parties that are held in school must be approved by the committee. Besides this duty, it also sponsors parties for the different session rooms. As no profit is made, the cost per individual is small enough so that all may attend.

There are five faculty members on the committee and these are appointed by the principal. Since its organization, Miss Allchin has been chosen chairman. Other faculty members selected were: Miss Hunter, Mr. LeFevre, Mr. Wiersema, and Miss Westphal. The student members are appointed by the president of the Student Council. Those chosen the first semester were: George Hawn, Florine Isgrigg, Denton Bettens, Martha Barnhart, and Ruth Corbett.

Since it was impossible to use the gymnasium oftener, only one party was held the first semester. This was the third annual All Girls Party in November which was attended by over 300 girls. The Senior Session Room won the prize for the largest percentage present.

On Washington's birthday, a party for session room 315 was held. A program suitable to the occasion was arranged. About two hundred attended this party.

The Sophomores were entertained at the Session Room 216 party held in April. A small crowd was present.

A party was held by the Freshmen in May and a fair number attended.

The student members for the second semester were as follows: Charles Renwick, Stanley McGaughan, Charlotte Olmstead, Arlene Walton and Edith Henry.

Nineteen parties in all were held by school organizations during the year. Each group is allowed one party each semester although picnics are not included in this. Parties must be held in the school building unless special permission is given by the committee.

Mt. Pleasant Club

IN order to stimulate a greater interest in the annual scholastic contest at Mt. Pleasant and to aid financially in the sending of delegates, the Mt. Pleasant Club was formed. Organization was begun late in the year and the club did a large amount of work for the time it had.

The club was composed of students who had represented Pontiac High School at the scholastic contests at Mt. Pleasant. Anyone who had gone was eligible to become a member.

Assemblies were given to both groups to create interest. These served as a "pep" meeting for the contestants. James Bradley was in charge of these assemblies.

"Hold 'Em Yale," a movie, was secured and presented to raise funds for the delegates. The proceeds aided materially in the expenses of the contestants.

Pontiac first entered contestants in the contests four years ago. Since then the number of representatives and also the prizes won have been increased each year. Delegates were sent in nearly all of the academic studies, including mathematics, foreign languages, English, social science, and science. For the last two years, the School Board has chartered a bus to take the representatives to Mt. Pleasant and back.

The following officers were chosen by the club: president, Elizabeth Sparks; vice-president, James Bradley; recording secretary, Donald Adams; corresponding secretary, Georgia Ricketts; treasurer, John Keyser; and sergeant-at-arms, Ernest Leffel.

Members of the Mt. Pleasant Club were as follows:

Donald Adams, Jean Ayres, Floyd Bond, James Bradley, Mildred Chase, Ruth Corbett, Clifford Hickmott, Edith Howarth, Raymond Huntwork, Roberta Jackson, Ernest Leffel, Donald MacNeven, Ernestine Millben, Joe

Pelton, Albert Quarton, Georgia Ricketts, Roberta Shepard, Marjorie Smith Elizabeth Sparks, Arnold Sukrow, Mabel Swartz, Helen VanAtta, Myron Wambaugh.

Shakespearean Club

A NUMBER of years ago there was in Pontiac High School a Shakespearean Club; but, because no one was able to supervise the club any longer, it was discontinued. Then all those interested along literary lines joined the English Club. This club grew so large that last year the faculty and students decided it should be divided into smaller clubs, so out of this division grew the Shakespearean Club. It was first formed last October. The Shakespearean Club then grew away from the modern play section. At the meetings attempts were made to dramatize scenes from "As You Like It," and "Mid-Summer's Night Dream," but this did not prove as successful as it might have if more time could have been spent for rehearsals.

In the club work, too, reports were given, studies were made of Shakespeare's life, of the influence of the early English History on the theater, and also interpretations of readings were given. Miss Derragon and Miss Westphal were club advisers.

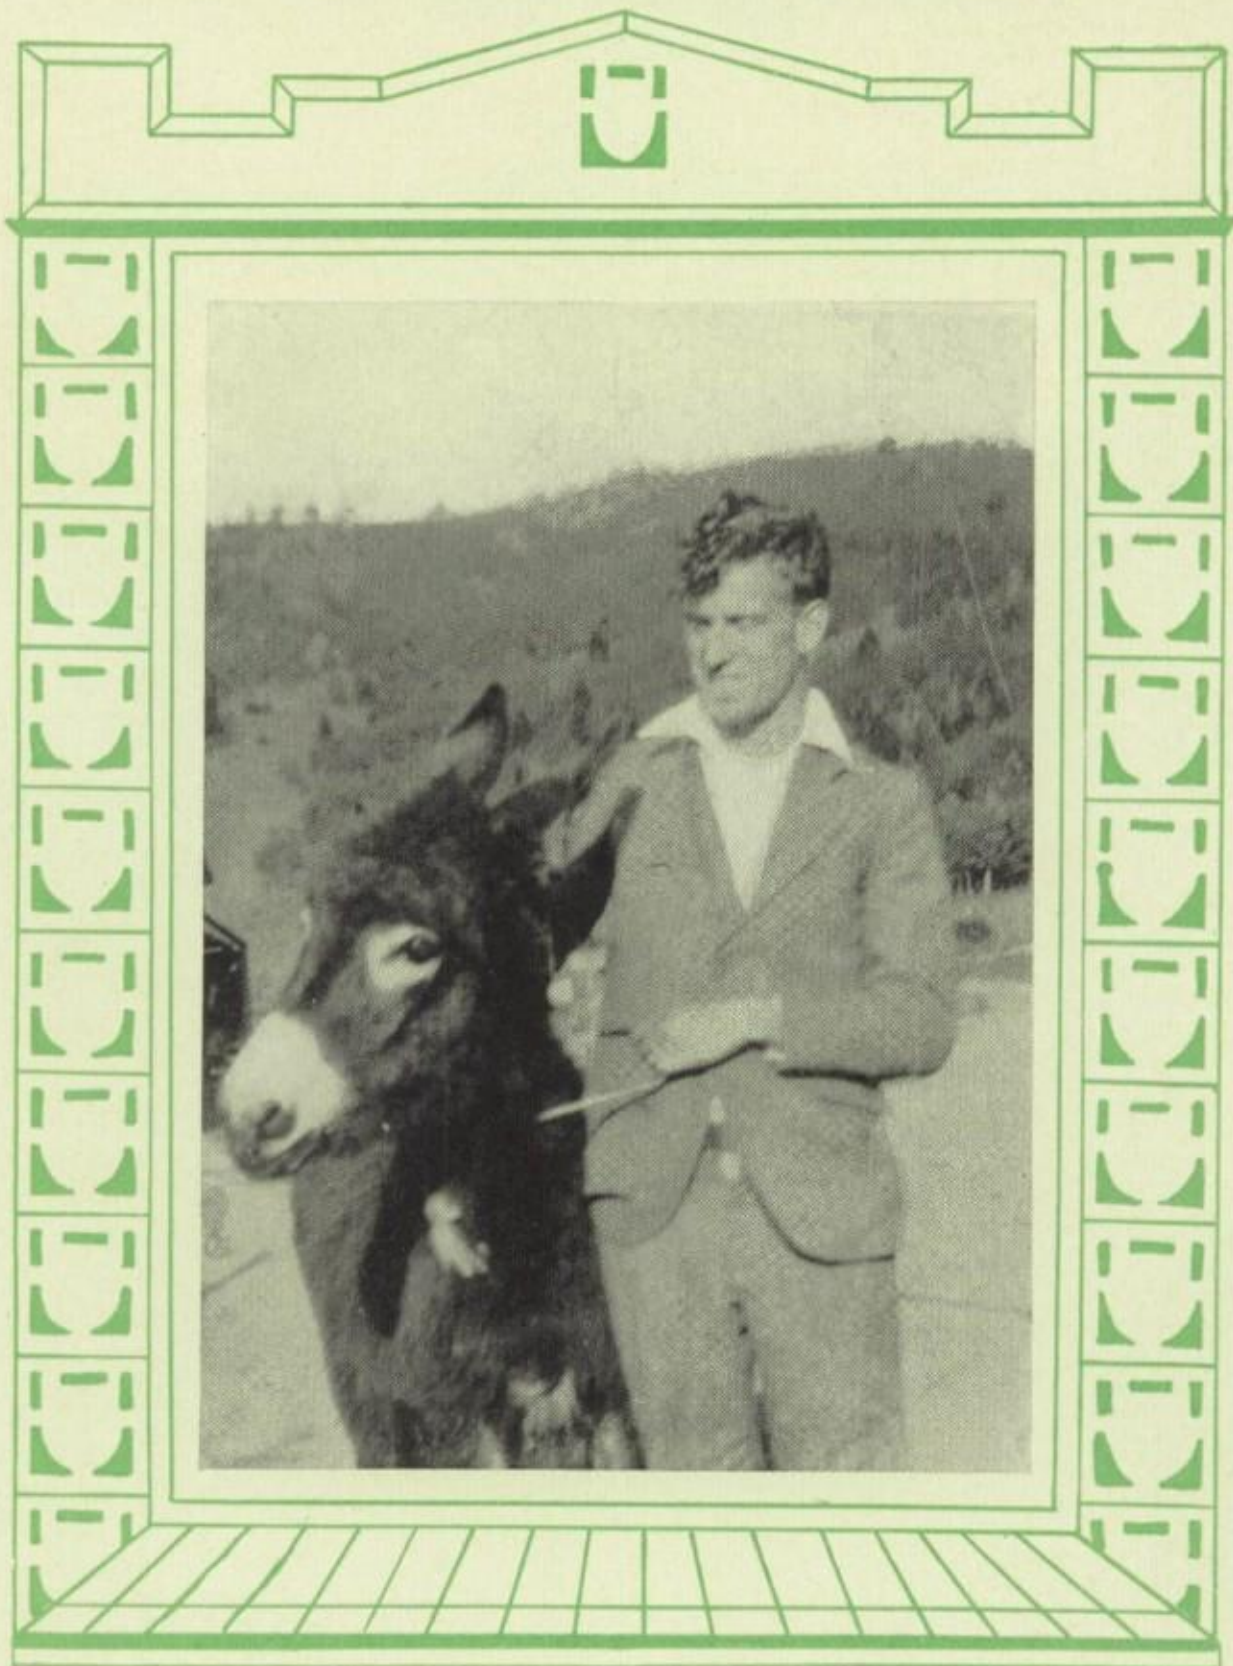

For the first semester, Walter Zaner was elected president; Geraldine Ruf, vice president; and Vivian Adams, secretary and treasurer. The second semester's club elected Geraldine Ruf, president; Vivian Adams, vice president; Jane Hulsapple, secretary; and Mary Ellen Sterling, treasurer.

Members of the Shakespearean Club were as follows:

Vivian Adams, Nana Amos, Helma Anderson, Jessie Andrus, Mildred Blake, Thelma Bower, Oliver Crager, Claire Crotty, Alma Davis, Stella Demski, Vesta Dunham, Maude Eley, Elden Gardner, Erma Hardenburg, Burnieta Haynes, June Hulsapple, Olivia Kator, Elizabeth Mansfield, Anna Belle Noble, Gerald Paner, Margaret Pietsker, Ganell Purvis, Mary Riley, Dorothy Roehl, Geraldine Ruf, Mary Ellen Sterling, Lenore Stewart, Willabelle Stevens, Eleanor Stinson, Darrel Taylor, Joy Tuggle, James Underwood, Manjaline Wood, Walter Zaner.

-HUMOR-

Miss Marilla Howland, a young lady of great domestic abilities, says she has a hard time telling her mince and apple pies apart, so she marks one, T. M.—'taint mince—and the other, T. M.—'tis mince! Patent applied for.

Dignified(?) Seniors

Harry Troxell has unfortunately been sadly reduced in circumstances. He has fallen to the low status pictured above, but as Harry says he is still very much a gentleman—when he sees a lady approaching him in the street, he bows from the waste (waist) down.

Earl Martin writes autobiographies with original viewpoints. His last read: "Cromwell was a wicked man and killed lots of men. He had a nose of copper hew under which dwelt a religious soul."

Stanley McGaughan is a great amateur student of photography. As this picture clearly shows, he is always ready for work. On the back of each of his efforts, Stanley very carefully prints Taken by S. McGaughan and Sun (Son).

Lucille Hallock is now a famous actress. Lucille can grab any selection you choose between her pearly teeth and shake it to pieces. She got a Half-Nelson on Poe's "Raven" the other night and nearly put it out of business.

This little boy you see here is Senior Myron Wambaugh, our great future "bee-ologist." M. Myron Wambaugh says that the sharpest thing about a bumble bee is his stinger, and then adds "I'll BEE back in the summer and we'll have the HIVES together."

This is a close up of Miss Susanne Bachelder singing, "Oh, Gee-ii-de me, oh, thou Gre-eat Gaw-ho-vah" in the choir. But as her humble request was not immediately complied with, we thoughtfully "guided" a little farther away.

This very intimate snapshot shows the famous surgeon upon the eve of his graduation from medical school. When he was asked for his secret of success, Alex Young replied smartly, "Keep 'em alive boy, keep 'em alive. Dead men pay no bills."

Carl Snelling, our Evangelist, recently advanced these resolutions during a business meeting of his congregation: Voted: The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof. Voted: The fullness of the earth is for the Saints. Voted: WE are the SAINTS.

Introductory

Dear Public:

I have been pressed to give this section a letter of recommendation—though I do not know much of it—hardly its name. This may sound extra-ordinary but I assure you it is not so uncommon in this office. Sometimes, indeed, one person brings an equally unknown to recommend him; in this case this section and I will recommend each other. As to the book in question, I must refer you to itself for its character and merits, with which it is certainly better acquainted than I can possibly be. I recommend it, however, to be colorful and most humorously inclined and I request that you will do it all the favors that, on further acquaintance, you will find it to deserve. I have the honor to represent the famous SENIOR CLASS of 1929.

THE QUIVER STAFF.

A Tomahawk writer, describing an Art Exhibition in our Art Room, says: "The visitor's eye will be struck, on entering the room, with a hand-carved cake of soap." This is encouraging to visitors.

Mame Dearie:—

Shades of Diana! It's been simply eras since I promised to write you "immediately, if not sooner." But honest to Hoover, Mame, I've been just flitting hither and yon, here and there, till my head's in a whirl. In fact, I'm actually frothing with excitement—no less. But I'll "on with the dance!" You must be just simply murdering cats by this time!

Whaddayaknow—the parental 2/3 of my eternal triangle has flown—evacuated—completely absconded! 'S truth! In fact, they've hibernated themselves down to Florida. Of all the excruciating things! At first I could just have gargled buttermilk. Then, to cop the climax, they up and send me to school! Can you tie that? The nerve!

Well, anyway, I did the "meek" and started off, books over my shoulder, et cetera, et cetera. But, say! this Pontiac orgy of "edication" ain't so worse after all. "Darn good looking guys they got here" was my first words.

And speaking of the handsome sex, there's one of 'em here that takes the cake. What I mean, he's got it all. 'N how! Name of Jimmy Campbell. But say, I heard a good one about him the other day. Simply excruciating! Ya know they got what they call session rooms here. I never could see why the nomenclature 'cause they never hold sessions in 'em. But, anyway, this bimbo, Campbell, got shifted up to the Senior session room, which he didn't belong there, bein's how he was only a Junior. Some people have all the luck. Well, as I was sayin', they put him there, and the girls kept him there! Then, lo and behold! what does they do but stick him up for editor of the "Quiver" and it didn't take long for those girls to elect him, either. Of course, you know all about the "Quiver."

Everything panned out fine for a few days 'til the old boy up and confessed that he was only a Junior, even tho' he did, maybe, look like a Senior. Well, everyone was flabbergasted and a few Scotchmen gave up the ghost—so much paper wasted!

Here I've been writing wildly on and on, and there's a 215 drag on tonight! Ta-ta, old girl.

It happened just before the school play. While Jean Willits was selling a ticket, her customer kindly remarked that she always enjoyed seeing the pupils perform and that she certainly intended seeing this year's production. Jean, much flattered, told her she was a leading character. After looking at her for a moment, the lady slowly said, "Well, I believe I'll go just the same."

"True Stories"

After Mr. Scadds had left a Pontiac High performance, he experienced a severe shock upon discovering that a packet of bank-notes, which he had had, was nowhere on his person. He must have dropped it during the entertainment.

"I'll go to the Principal's office and make my loss known," he thought; and he did.

"I left a packet containing $500 in bank notes in the auditorium during the play," said Mr. Scadds to Mr. DuFrain.

"Which performance?"

"The Thursday night one."

"Have you your check?"

Fortunately he had, and this enabled Mr. DuFrain to send for Les Shanks, the head usher. He soon arrived.

"Shanks," said Mr. DuFrain, "did you see anything of a package left in your section?"

"No, sir."

"One of the boys didn't turn anything over to you?"

"No, sir."

"Well, bring the usher of this section here."

He was brought.

"George Miles, did you see anything of a small packet after the people had left their seats?"

"Yes, sir."

"You didn't turn it in?"

"No, sir. It was a lot of money, sir."

"Precisely. Where is it?"

"Here, sir."

It was produced from an inside pocket. Mr. Scadds' eyes brightened when he saw the roll.

"That's right," he exclaimed. He counted the money and it was all there—the entire $500.

"Look here, Miles," said Mr. DuFrain. "I want to know why you did not bring that packet to me the moment you got your fingers on it."

"Why, Mr. DuFrain," said George with an injured air, "I supposed the gentleman had left it as a tip. That's why."

St. Peter: You say you were an editorial writer for the Tomahawk?

Mildred Goldstein: Yes, sir.

St. Peter: Step into the elevator, please.

M. Goldstein: How soon does it go up?

St. Peter: It doesn't go up, it goes down.

Donald Bowers stood in the session room, He did not hear the bell, And when he reached his English class, Miss Derragon gave him—extra home work.

Miss Paris read her English VIII students "The Old Oaken Bucket." After explaining it to them very carefully, she told them to copy the first stanza from the blackboard and try to illustrate it. Pretty soon George Stout handed to her a paper with several little dots between two lines, a circle, half a dozen dots, and three buckets.

"Why, I don't understand this, George," said Miss Paris. "What's this circle?"

"Oh, that's the well," was the reply.

"And why do you have three buckets?"

"Oh, one is the oaken bucket, one is the iron-bound bucket, and the other is the bucket that hung in the well."

"But what are the dots?"

"Why those are the spots which my infancy knew."

"You have a baby sister, haven't you?" asked Miss O'Hara of Evelyn Hoover.

"Yes, Mam," said Evelyn.

"Do you like her?" was queried.

"Well, I wish it was a boy," said Evelyn slowly, "so he could be a football star and take me places when he got bigger."

"Well," said Miss O'Hara, "why don't you exchange your little sister for a boy?"

Evelyn reflected for a moment. Then she replied rather sorrowfully. "We can't now. It's too late. We've used her a year."

Barbara Hall (during a debate)—"As Daniel Webster says in his great dictionary——"

"It was Noah who wrote the Dictionary," corrected Mr. Varner.

"Noah nothing," said Barbara indignantly. "Noah built the ark."

Willard Boardman: I threw a kiss at a girl on the street the other day.

Donald MacNeven: O-oh. What did she say?

W. Boardman: She said I was the laziest fellow she knew.

Lyle Passmore, who had unfortunately learned to swear, was rebuked by Miss Maddaugh.

"Who told you I swore?" asked this bad boy.

"Oh, a little bird told me," answered Miss Maddaugh.

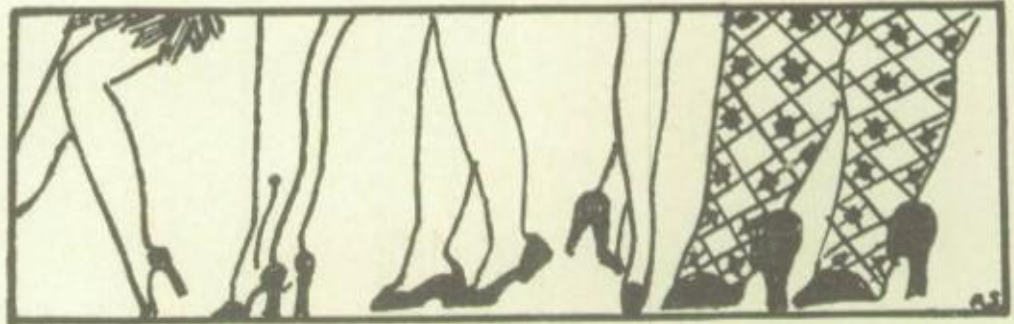

Lyle scowled and looked out of the window at some sparrows which were scolding and chattering. Then he had a happy thought.

"I know who told," he said. "It was one of those——sparrows."

Why do unscrupulous editors,
With calm and tranquil face,
Write verses of mere nonsense
Just to fill up space?

Miss Van Arsdale: Mary, what are you doing?

Mary Windiate: I'm drawing a picture of God.

Miss Van Arsdale: But, Mary, you mustn't do that. Nobody knows what God looks like.

M. Windiate: Well, they will when I get through.

Ruth Flessner (in the lunch room): What is this?

Lady behind counter: That's bean soup.

Ruth Flessner: Yes, but I don't care what it's been. The question is what it is now.

If Shakespeare had produced his plays in 1929, he might have been more successful if he had named:

Romeo and Juliette	Stolen Love
As You Like It	Glorious Exiles
Julius Caesar	Traders on the Tiber
Hamlet	Dreams and Madness
Taming of the Shrew	Try This on Your Wife
The Tempest	Magic Isle
Macbeth	The Duncan Murder Case

Mrs. Hamilton was entertaining an English lord a short time ago and before his departure gave a large dinner in his honor. Little Jean at the table was much impressed by the conversation which went something like this: "My Lord, won't you have this," or "My Lord, do have some of that." Finally the conversation changed and little Jean, noting the lord looking at a dish of relish, cried out: "Mamma, God wants some pickles."

After Mr. Thors had returned from his trip to Washington during Hoover's inauguration, many of the clubs and other school organizations wished to hear about the trip, and he was often bothered with pupils. He says: "I was so perpetually harassed that I dreaded to see a pupil approach with an air of business. The other day I was just going out of the building when I noticed the usual student hurrying on. Opening the door again, I said in a weary voice, 'Did you want to see me?' The girl stopped, smiled, and replied courteously, 'It gives me pleasure to look at you, sir, but I was going further on.'"

A certain man went from Pontiac to Detroit and fell among thieves, who beat him and stripped him and left him for dead. A Good Samaritan, seeing this, stepped on the gas of his Ford and quickly jiggled away lest he should be sent to the House of Detention as a witness while the Robbers were released on bail.

1929 Class Will

Shout it forth that: We the class of nineteen hundred and twenty-nine of the Pontiac High School, Pontiac, Michigan, being in full possession of our diplomas and credit slips and appreciating that within these last few hours dispositions should be made of all those things so dear to our hearts, do ordain and establish, make, publish, and declare this to be the last will and testament of that immortal band of beauty, brains, and brawn known as the class of nineteen hundred and twenty-nine. We hereby will and direct the following treasures be disbursed in this manner.

I, Evelyn Faulman, being in my customary senses, leave my grand "Bernhardt" qualities to Esther Kovinsky to be used in all coming high school play productions, but under no conditions to be assumed off the stage on pain of forfeiting this privilege.

I, Marilla Howland, enjoying an unusually generous state of mind, leave my habit of "dunking" toast, donuts, cookies, etc., to Jean Hamilton, who may receive the same amount of pleasure from it as I have.

After due deliberation, I, Eunice Shultz, have decided to leave my sweet sisterly love and regard to Fay Shultz, Ione Reed, and Betty Webster, with the express understanding that they develop this quality towards their upperclass sisters. It is hoped they use it in the desired manner.

I, Clifford Foster, do leave the already detached shavings of my manly beard to be affixed to the smooth, cherubic countenance of James Bradley, who may collect this bequeathment upon the payment of a small inheritance tax to me, his benefactor.

Fifty 16-full-ounce-pounds of avoirdupois are hereby authorized to be detached from the rotund form of Senior Wayne Wood, and affixed to the Ichabod figure of Homer Thurston, to be distributed not meagerly but proportionally and to be in his own right forever.

We, hereby give, devise, and bequeath the pedal extremities of Eugene Hannan to Underclassman Joseph Pelton. May he go places, see people, and thereupon become a first class pedestrian on these added extremities.

I, "Suzie" Bachelder, will forfeit my dark wiles and unique methods for enticing all Pontiac High School boys to Jeannette Dull who may use them as the occasion seems fit. However, I claim the privilege of exempting a "certain blond" of the 1929 class under the present legally recognized method known as "squatters' rights."

Mary Harriet Hadley leaves her perfection of looks, words, and deeds to those Junior Classmen so much less fortunate than herself.

To the Student Council we extend our most sincere sympathy in their inability to keep their treasury full and the organization out of debt, and suggest that in despondent moods they concentrate upon the 102 billion 969 million 846 thousand 403 dollars and nineteen cents war debt owed the U. S. and dutifully hope and faithfully pray that any small portion of the same be donated in some way or means to them.

We leave the faculty an unmeasureable sense of loss at our going and deem it possible, but hardly probable, that the void ever be filled with entire satisfaction.

We, the class of nineteen hundred and twenty-nine of the Pontiac High School, Pontiac, Michigan, do hereby charge that the Junior Class of said school faithfully and judiciously carry out the above instructions and in addition immediately to assume the heavy responsibility of undertaking all the unfinished business, back work, and incompletes of the graduating class with the intent to discharge all such liabilities. And we do hereby appoint as executor and trustee Sarah E. LeRoy to enforce all the above mentioned bequeaths and bequests and to see that our last wishes are carried out in like manner.

In witness thereof: We, the class of 1929, set our hand and seal this eighth day of June, nineteen hundred and twenty-nine.

Believe It, or Not

The play was just starting, 'twas pitch dark in the house,

Not a creature was stirring, except a wee mouse,
Who, tiring of quiet, thought it would be fun
To scare all the boys and see the girls run.

So he crept from his hole—from his comfortable lair—

And ran 'cross the floor, beneath a girl's chair;
And all of a sudden there rose such a clatter
Mr. Mousie himself scarce knew what was the matter.

"There he comes," "See him go," "Strike him down," "Pen him in";

Only one remained calm 'mid the uproar and din,
Only Dickie Racine kept his presence of mind,
Only he remained calm in affairs of this kind.

He walked down the aisle like a cop on his "beat,"

Discovered the culprit—a Sherlock Holmes' feat—

But the mousie was sleeping—had not even stirred—

For little cared he for a shriek or hard word;
He'd had his fun now and the price he must pay
For disturbing an audience during a play.

Our heroic Dick grabbing him then by the tail
Made the poor little mousie quiver and quail.

As Dick stalked up the aisle, the girls gave a loud sigh,

They whispered, "My Hero," the boys growled,
"Go die."

But I heard him exclaim as he went from our sight,

"Those girls are the limit and the boys, well—
GOOD NIGHT!"

Sam has spirits naught could check,
And today at breakfast he Broke his baby sister's neck,
So he shan't have jam for tea.

Many queer letters have been fished from Miss LeRoy's waste basket. This is from a parent who objected to physical culture. Mrs. Beach: You must stop teach my Lizzie fisical torture she needs yet readin' and figors mit sums more as that, if I want her to do jumping I kin make her jump.

Mrs. _____.

This parent objected to the clay-modeling in the art department as shown: Miss Davenport: John kem home yesterday wid his clothes covered wid mud. He said you put him to work mixing clay when he ought to be learnin' to read and write. Me man carries the hod an' Heaven knows I hev enuf trouble wid his clothes in the wash widout scrapin' John's coat. If he comes home like this agin I'll send him to yez to wash his clothes.

This is the obliging kind:

Dear Miss LeRoy: Pleas excuse Fritz for staying home he had the measels to oblige his father.

Mr. _____.

Dear Teacher: Please excuse Henry for not coming in school as he died from the car running over him and oblige his loving mother.

Mrs. _____.

And, then, there's this kind:

Teacher: Please let Willie come home at 2 o'clock. I take him out for a little pleasure to see his grandfather's grave.

Mrs. _____.

EXPLANATORY: We promised you that we were going on the trail of Miss Sarah E. LeRoy, our grim custodian, and that this year's Quiver issue would contain an expose calculated to startle our high school. We had more than a column of it in type when Miss LeRoy called at our office, and not only subscribed for our annual but praised us all for our past year's performances and sent us out in the world with an optimistic word for each.

Miss LeRoy is not only a genial, whole-souled lady, worthy of a place in our best society, but an enterprising, go-ahead teacher who is a credit to the whole school. When you want the best of service or sympathetic understanding, call at 316.

The difference between a diplomat and a lady has been defined as follows: When a diplomat says "Yes" he means "perhaps"; when he says "perhaps" he means "no"; when he says "no", he's no diplomat. When a lady says "no" she means "perhaps"; when she says "perhaps" she means "yes" and if she says "yes" she's no lady.
